Special Police Sabotage Squad Set Up

CHIEF REVEALS CITY HAS 100 'TIPS' ON FILE

Bates Names 2-Man Division To Investigate Complaints On Espionage.

ASKS PUBLIC'S HELP

Declares Most Information Deals With Sympathizers Of Nazis, Reds.

Organization of a sabotage and espionage squad within the Mansfield police department to investigate subversive activities in the Mansfield area was reported today by Police Chief Meade K. Bates.

Bates said that he was putting two members of his department on special detail to probe more than 100 local sabotage and espionage complaints He did not disclose names of the officers.

The chief said that the complaints had been made by residents of the city over a period of several months. Most of them apply to Nazi or Communist sympathizers, according to the chief.

Bates said that he had conducted the investigations personally but that the number had grown to such a point that help is needed for the work.

"Now is the time to make such investigations," declared Bates. "If or when war comes, suspected persons could be rounded up in a few days. If this phase is neglected now, it would take several weeks or months to get saboteurs who could cause unestimated damage in that time."

Bates gave a talk to law enforcement officers from five counties meeting in Mansfield yesterday in an FBI school. The address concerned the keeping of a file on suspected persons.

L. V. Boardman, special FBI agent-in-charge, attending enforcement officers from Richland, Huron, Erie, Crawford and Ashland counties to build up contacts with the press and people in their areas.

Boardman pointed out that several of the most fruitful leads given FBI men in their fight against subversive activity has been submitted by citizens.

In addition to talks by Bates and Boardman, the policemen heard lectures on the current developments in the field of internal security, espionage and sabotage.

The FBI conferences are being held to coordinate the work of local police departments with federal plans to control subversive activity.

Two Bombs Hurled At Nazi Embassy In Buenos Aires

BUENOS AIRES —(AP)— Two small bombs were thrown today in front of the fashionable embassy residence of German Ambassador Edmund von Thermann during a hostile demonstration.

Von Thermann has been the object of a congressional attack which reached a virtual demand for his expulsion from Argentina for alleged abuse of his diplomatic privileges.

No damage was done the building other than stains left by a tar bomb thrown by demonstrators.

Capt. Fritz Wiedemann, formerly German consul at San Francisco, Cal., boarded the Japanese cargo boat Manila Maru to sail for the Far East this morning.

Von Thermann and several members of the German embassy staff went down to see him off.

Von Thermann said no damage was done by last night's demonstration and said "I did not even wake up."

131 Draftees Included In County Call

They'll Report Oct. 6 and 8 for Training; Quota Biggest Yet.

Richland county selective service boards today were ordered to send 131 men to army camps Oct. 6 and 8, the largest contingent to leave the county since the draft law was enacted nearly a year ago.

All but three of the selectees will be white men who are scheduled to leave on Oct. 6 or soon after that date. Three colored youths will leave about Oct. 8.

Board 1 in Mansfield and Board 3, serving the rural areas and Shelby, will provide 46 men each. Board 2 in Mansfield and Madison township will send 39 men, including the three colored selectees.

The calls, the 28th and 29th since induction was started, will take 7,261 men from Ohio between Oct. 6 and 29.

With 22 men due to leave Mansfield for the Fort Hayes induction station next Monday and those past 28 deferred, board clerks said they would have to begin selecting men immediately to fill the big October quotas.

It appeared certain that a large number of youths to be inducted into the army next month will be 21-year-old registrants who signed up July 1. A larger percentage of them can meet the physical requirements and fewer have dependents, it was pointed out.

In a group of 40 older men examined yesterday at the Mansfield Armory, only 17 qualified, clerks said today. Board 3 had only five 1-A men from a group of 13 examined.

Most of the men past 28 who have not been inducted into the army had received their 1-H classification today, showing that they are temporarily deferred because of their age but would be eligible for service should the age limit be lifted in an emergency.

To meet the quotas for October, boards today planned to step up their examination periods for registrants, possibly returning to the twice-a-week schedule until enough men have received the approval of doctors and dentists to fill the quotas. Induction of men from the county lagged during the summer months and examinations were discontinued for a time so that the boards would not have too many men ready to go and no place to send them.

EXPECT FIGHT

Leaders See Row In Congress On Aid For Russia.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— The administration prepared today for a major fight in the house over whether Russia should be permitted to receive war-aid under the new $5,985,000,000 lend-lease appropriation.

The administration never has said it planned to use lend-lease funds for aid to Russia, but house leaders will fight attempts to exclude her specifically from such help.

Speaker Sam Rayburn said it would be "most unfortunate" if the new appropriation were so amended. "It would weaken Russian morale at a time when the Soviets have been keeping Hitler entertained longer than any other nation which has met him on land," he said.

Moose Registering For Convention

Official delegates from Ohio Moose lodges started to register today at the Mansfield-Leland hotel for the 12th annual state Moose convention. Shown at top at the registration desk are Lola Raby of Mansfield, registrar; Eva Wallar, Canton, grand ritualist of the Women of the Moose, and Loretta Zeller, registration chairman. Three Alliance delegates are shown in the bottom picture as they registered. They are (left to right) James Appleby, R. L. Greenwalt and Abram Rich.

PURCHASES BY COUNTY HIT

State Examiners Criticize Equipment Buying For T. B. Sanatorium.

Criticism of the purchase of materials and equipment for the Richland county T. B. sanatorium by county commissioners, operation of the county dog and kennel department, and the handling of alimony funds by a former probation officer was contained today in a state examiner's report of inspection of Richland county offices.

The examiners returned findings totaling $6,169 against county officials and persons doing business with the county. The report covered the period from May 1, 1939, to Oct. 19, 1940.

Pointing out that state laws do not authorize the county to spend money for equipment and supplies for the T. B. sanatorium which the county does not own, the report listed a finding of $536 against the county commissioners, Auditor Norman L. Wolfe, and the late T. Amos Jones as owner of the sanatorium for equipment and supplies illegally purchased by the county.

Chairman C. L. Mitchell of the board of commissioners said attempts were being made to correct difficulties in operation of

URGES CONTROL

Baruch Asks Ceiling on Wages, Rents and Farm Prices.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Bernard M. Baruch, who headed the war industries board during World War 1, today urged congress "to put a celing over the whole price structure including wages, rents, and farm prices."

Baruch, who appeared before the house banking and currency committee, advocated a much more drastic price control bill than that planned by the administration.

"I don't believe in piecemeal price fixing," he declared. "I don't believe that you can treat price control as a separate effort. It must be intimately tied up and move in step with all other war controls, wage and rent controls, priorities, conservation, commandeering, war trade, war finance and so forth.

DELAYS SIGNING OF TAX MEASURE

Roosevelt Asks 48 Hours to Study Bill, Declines Talk on Sinking.

HYDE PARK, N. Y.—(AP)—President Roosevelt said at his press conference today that he did not know exactly when he would sign the nation's biggest tax bill, a $3,553,400,000 measure which he brought with him from Washington.

The president, who arrived this morning for a short stay at his ancestral home, said he thought 48 hours was not too long to study the bill and said that holding it up a day or so would not cost the government anything.

Mr. Roosevelt began the conference by asserting that he had no news today, and for the first time in months his press conference failed to produce a single important story.

News men brought up a wide range of subjects, but Mr. Roosevelt was not inclined to talk about them. Among the things they mentioned were.

A story in the London Daily Express that an American naval ship had sunk an Axis war craft. Discounting it, the president said he did not care to comment one way or another.

Printed discussions whether there would be congressional elections in 1942.

Recent conversations between Japanese and American officials.

Presidential conferences with Secretary Hull.

A shipping strike in New York which resulted in the maritime commission's taking over three freighters.

Mr. Roosevelt expected to remain here over the week-end, resting, getting in some measure of work, and helping to settle the estate of his mother who died Sept. 7.

PUSH WORK TO BE READY FOR BIG PARADE

Delegates Speeding Through Business Sessions; 4,000 To Be Here Tomorrow.

With some 300 accredited delegates starting business sessions and with buses and auto caravans bringing in hundreds of other visitors, the 12th annual convention of the Ohio State Moose association swung into its convention schedule today.

While registration of both men and women lodge delegates continued at a brisk pace at the Mansfield-Leland hotel, officials of the Mansfield lodge, host to the meeting, predicted that 4,000 Moose members will be on hand by noon tomorrow, big day of the convention.

Committees of official delegates were closeted in separate meeting rooms at the hotel this morning, rushing business routine so that bulk of matters on the serious side of a convention will be out of the way before tomorrow's colorful parade when a three-mile long procession will move over Mansfield's gaily decorated downtown section beginning at 3 p. m.

Floyd Dent, parade marshal, reported today that 15 floats, 17 bands from throughout Ohio and at least 1,000 members, including uniformed drill teams will participate in the parade. It will be one of the biggest and

ATTACK CHINESE

Japanese Launch New Major Offensive From Hankow.

SHANGHAI — (AP) — Japanese army spokesmen said today a major offensive was underway southwestward from Hankow along the shores of Tungting Lake and in the vicinity of Yochow, where the Japanese were said to have crossed the Sungkiang river.

Preliminary operations ended yesterday were said to have led to death of 4,300 Chinese. The attack was said to be following the same strategy as that of the 1939 offensive—when Chinese turned back the invaders within sight of Changsha and scored their most important victory of the war.

The spokesman declined to reveal the objective of the current offensive but expressed the wish "the Chinese won't burn Changsha again as they did in 1938 or carry off supplies," as in 1939."

Germans Enter Ukraine City, Hoist Banner

Million Men Reported Encircled With Ring of Steel In Nearby Area; Finns Report Huge Fires Are Raging In Leningrad.

BULLETIN

BERLIN—(AP)—The German high command announced tonight that the Germans had entered Kiev and that the German flag was flying on the citadel there.

(By Associated Press)

Adolf Hitler's high command reported today that German troops had closed a steel ring around four Russian armies 125 miles east of Kiev with "their annihilation now in progress," and simultaneously grave new threats imperilled Kiev itself and the great northern metropolis of Leningrad.

The trapped Red armies were unofficially estimated at about half a million men.

More than 3,600,000 Soviet troops were declared to have been slain or captured in the three-month-old campaign. Half were killed, the Nazi high command said.

On the historic ratio of three wounded to every one killed in past wars, this would mean that Red army losses totalled the staggering figure of 9,000,000 men, including some 5,400,000 wounded.

German losses were put at only 402,865 killed, wounded and missing in the first two months of the war.

In a special bulletin, Hitler's field headquarters said German army groups under Field Marshal Gen. Gerd von Runstedt and Field Marshal Gen. Fedor von Bock, slashing around Kiev in a vast flanking movement, had met beyond the Desna river to trap the Russians.

Finnish military dispatches said huge fires were raging in Leningrad, blazing so fiercely they could be seen with the naked eye in broad daylight from Finnish territory.

Other Nazi reports said Stuka dive bombers had silenced the guns of Kronstadt fortress, powerful island naval base 20 miles from Leningrad, thus paving the way for German warships to steam up the Gulf of Finland and shell the old czarist capital at close range.

A Red army bulletin acknowledged that the Germans had reached one of Kiev's gates, but indicated that the struggle had not yet reached a decisive phase. Bitter fighting raged around the city of 850,000 inhabitants throughout the night, a late Soviet communique said.

German dispatches said other Nazi armies, sweeping eastward beyond the Dnieper river, had pushed about half way to Kharkov, in the heart of the Donets river industrial basin, 270 miles east of Kiev.

New pressure was reported, too, on the long-sieged Black sea port of Odessa, where the Germans said they dropped more than 220,-

UNREST SWEEPS AXIS TERRITORY

Two More Communists Executed In Paris as Total Deaths Mount to 115.

(By Associated Press)

Shots of a German firing squad broke the quiet of a Paris dawn once more today as two more Communists were executed in reprisal for demonstrations against the German occupying authorities in France.

Paris has become in recent months a festive symbol of the chafing of a populace under authoritarian rule; there the Germans have taken the most drastic of measures applied in the many occupied lands.

Bombs and gunfire in rebellious outbreaks in Axis-conquered lands and the answers of firing squads have taken the lives of at least 115 persons, wounded 71, and resulted in sweeping arrests of uncounted hundreds within a week.

In Paris the situation was so grave the Germans ordered a curfew imposed for three nights in the Seine department, whose chief city is Paris, and warned that the violators would be arrested and held as hostges.

Two days ago the German military command warned that an increasing number of hostages would be shot in any future attacks on Germans and that they would be drawn from all classes.

"I will no longer allow the lives of German soldiers to be threat-

SCHOOLS GO ON AUCTION BLOCK

Abandoned Richland Buildings To Be Sold Oct. 18.

Two of Richland county's "little red schoolhouses" which have been abandoned as the result of consolidations, will go on the auction block Oct. 18.

They are the Rome school and the Paradise school in Bloomingrove township. Both are brick buildings and have basements, County Supt. Boyd Robenson said.

Closed last year, the Rome school building will be offered at sale at 2 p. m., Oct. 18. The Paradise school, which has been closed three years, will go on the block an hour later. Both buildings will be sold on the grounds.

HITS 'FRAUD'

Nye Charges Churchill, FDR Foist War on Their People.

CINCINNATI — (INS) — President Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill stood accused today by Sen. Gerald P. Nye (R.) North Dakota, of "inflicting a fraud on their peoples."

Addressing an America First rally at Cincinnati, the isolationist senator termed the president and Churchill "two men in a boat."

"If President Roosevelt," said Nye, "finally gets what he has been issuing engraved invitations for, if we get in a shooting war in Europe, the war must be referred to by historians as 'President Roosevelt's war.'"

The North Dakota senator vigorously defended Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Sen. Burton K. Wheeler from attack by "interventionists who are dragging the red herring of anti-semitism" into the controversy.

LEBANON —(INS)— The strike of CIO union workers at the Maxwell Paper mill in Franklin for a union shop and wages increases of 10 cents an hour entered the second week today with no settlement in sight.

Sheriff's deputies were placed on guard after Stetson Kindred, a mill foreman, was severely beaten when he tried to enter the plant.

Mansfield Sees Skies Put On Big Show of Northern Lights

Mansfielders along with thousands of other Ohioans witnessed one of the most brilliant exhibitions of northern lights ever seen in the state last night, when the Aurora Borealis staged a spectacle that interrupted wireless and radio communications in some sections of the country and caused genuine alarm along the eastern seaboard.

Although communication lines were disrupted elsewhere no interference was felt in Mansfield. Residents gathered on their porches to see the display and others drove out along the highway to obtain a clearer view.

Mansfield police received several calls from residents frightened by the electrical display. "Where are all the lights coming from?" they demanded. "Has the world come to an end?" was a question one of them put to police.

Originating in the north and extending long fingers into the south, the display reached its peak in brilliance between 7:30 and 8 p. m. and was clearly visible in all sections of the state.

During the night, strange lights flashed across the heavens as if a magician were at the switch of an electric color panel. The spectacle

Bartenders' Union Pickets 3 Cafes, Organizer Faces Court

While one union organizer had been arrested and while three downtown cafes were being picketed by bartenders seeking new contracts, police today were investigating complaints of two members of a cement workers' union that striking truck-drivers at their plant had filled gasoline tanks with cement and gravel.

John Neznik, 125 Distl avenue, an organizer for Bartenders' union, Local 270, AFL, was charged with disorderly conduct late yesterday by Russell J. Matthes, proprietor of the Crescent Cafe, one of the grills being picketed.

Neznik's case was continued until Tuesday in Municipal court this morning by Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch. Attorney H. M. Rust appeared for Neznik.

Rust said that Neznik was arrested after he had gone to the Crescent Cafe to get a union display card which the union contract says "will be returned upon demand." Neznik said that Matthes refused to return the card although his contract with

GERMANS TRAP 4 RED ARMIES IN KIEV AREA

Huge Fires Rage In Former Capital; Stukas Silence Kronstadt Fortress.

000 pounds of bombs in a single night attack.

The German high command, releasing casualty figures on the first two months of the 90-day-old struggle, said German losses were 84,354 killed, 292,690 wounded and 18,921 missing. German air force losses for the two-month period were given as 1,542 dead, 3,980 wounded and 1,378 missing.

Russian prisoners were listed at more than 1,800,000 since the beginning of the conflict, with the number of Soviet killed rated considerably higher.

British estimates yesterday said the Russians had lost 3,000,000 men and the Germans 2,000,000.

Authoritative London quarters, acknowledging that the loss of coal and oil fields, steel plants and other war industries in the Ukraine had dealt a sore blow to the Russians, declared nevertheless that the U. S. S. R. could maintain a large army in the field even if the Germans overran the Donets industrial basin and took Kharkov.

Alternative sources of supply, it was said, would prevent a Russian collapse.

On the northern front, Finnish army observers less than 16 miles from Kronstadt said thick smoke enveloped the island's batteries before they ceased firing.

Adolf Hitler's newspaper, Voelkischer Beobachter, said the guns of Kronstadt, emplaced above a 23-foot ship channel between Leningrad's harbor and deep waters of the Gulf of Finland to the west, have been blasted out of action by a coordinated attack of German dive-bombers and land batteries arrayed along the south shore of Kronstadt bay.

Finns announced capture of the Soviet base of Rukajaervi, 60 miles from the White sea coast, in their Karelian campaign.

Both Germany and Russia were affected by international incidents growing out of the war.

Japan was reported by Koh Ishii, Tokyo government spokesman, to have protested to the Soviet embassy for a second time against floating Russian mines in the Sea of Japan as menaces to navigation.

Two vessels—a Korean sailing ship and a Japanese fishing boat—were declared to have been sunk by the mines with a loss of 13 lives. A mine field protects Vladivostok, Russian far eastern port to which United States supplies are moving, on the Sea of Japan.

Small RAF and Luftwaffe forces crossed the channel in overnight attacks, British sources said. British bombers attacked the docks at LeHavre, in German-occupied France, they reported, and German bombs which caused little damage fell in south Wales and east Anglia.

The British air ministry said British planes sank two German minesweepers and two anti-aircraft ships and damaged four other vessels yesterday off the Netherlands and Belgian coasts.

British Worried at Nazi-Soviet Battles

LONDON — (INS)— The British government feels "deep anxiety" about the outcome of Russian resistance, A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, declared today as Russia made ready to throw huge new armies of between four and five million men into the battle against the Nazis.

"We are watching with profound admiration but deep anxiety the swaying fortunes of the heroic resistance our Russian allies are offering," Alexander said in a speech today.

The first lord's admission of the gravity of Britain's concern over Russia's lack of mechanized equipment to block the Nazi's terrific machine power was made after it was revealed in authoritative quarters that the Russians have raised another gigantic army.

The new troops, however, are not nearly as well equipped as the first line Soviet defenders, it was said, and thus Russia is rapidly reaching the unenviable position occupied by France—fighting a mechanized enemy with bare hands.

Report Reds Hurl Back Nazi Panzers.

MOSCOW—(Delayed)— (U.P.)— The Red army was reported today to have thrown back a stubborn attack by the 12th German tank division upon the southeastern defenses of Leningrad.

The attack by the Nazi panzer force was launched Wednesday, the army organ, Red Star, reported. The German tanks rushed forward in an attempt to crack a line of Russian fortified positions but was met by a stiff Soviet counter-attack.

Russian armored and infantary forces, Red Star said, hit the Germans in the center and on the flanks, throwing them back to their former positions and destroying 40 Nazi tanks. Other tanks taken were in working condition.

State Examiners Criticize Equipment Buying For T. B. Sanatorium.

the sanatorium at the time of Mr. Jones' death several weeks ago and that the county would continue to negotiate with his heirs for a revised plan of operation.

Findings amounting to $319, representing alimony and support payments which allegedly were not accounted for, were returned against Harry Crouse, former county probation officer, who disappeared in October last year.

Crouse received the payments for distribution to women whose divorce and alimony cases had been heard in common pleas court.

David Lantz, named by Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston to succeed Crouse, received a clean slate from the examiners. Handling of alimony and support money was turned over to the clerk of courts last April at the suggestion of the examiners.

The commissioners and auditor were held responsible for findings totaling $880 which the examiners said was spent illegally in operation of the dog kennel department. The amount, the report said, represents excess expenditures for clerk hire and office expenses over the three-tenths of 50 per cent of dog tax receipts as allowed by law.

The examiners also criticised the department for failing to require affidavits from dog owners concerning whether their female dogs had been spayed and were eligible for cheaper tags. The report showed that 2,980 tags were issued for spayed dogs during the period covered by the examination while only 725 were issued for females.

Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said the applications for licenses require sworn statements which he believed were satisfactory. He has asked the attorney general for a ruling in the matter.

The Richland County Farm Bureau Cooperative association was cited in a finding for $1,020 for goods sold to the county. The sales were illegal, examiners said, because County Commissioners C. L. Mitchell and Ray Hout own stock in the Farm Bureau cooperative.

Mitchell and Hout explained today that they held only 50 cents worth of stock each which they received by virtue of making purchases under the cooperative profit-sharing plan.

Except for the findings against Crouse, all the findings were on technicalities and most of the officials were commended for the accuracy and neatness in their records.

No findings were returned against the county school board, board of elections, fair board, dog warden, and prosecuting attorney.

Engineers To See Sewage Plant, End Conference Today

An inspection of Mansfield's $330,000 sewage treatment plant was the main feature scheduled today for the closing session of the Ohio Conference on Sewage Treatment opened in Mansfield yesterday.

James R. Turner, plant superintendent, presented a report on the plant's design, operation and technical problems at the opening meeting today at 10:40 a. m. He will also act as guide in the inspection tour.

Others speaking this morning were F. H. Waring, chief engineer of the state health department, who outlined the history of the development of sewage treatment in this state; and Major B. F. Hatch, Columbus, consulting quartermaster of the U. S. army's Fifth zone, who told of sanitation problems in connection with national defense.

Following business sessions by the Ohio Conference on Sewage Treatment and the Ohio Sewage Works Conference group, discussion periods were to be held in which the treatment of industrial wastes was to be analyzed.

Approximately 200 sewage engineers and plant operators attending the conference heard W. J. Russell, manager of Westinghouse's appliance engineering department, speak on problems relative to the substitution of materials for manufacturing due to defense requirements at last night's dinner session at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Yesterday afternoon, operators and engineers from some of the state's leading treatment plants led technical discussions of sewage filtration, sludge treatment and other plant problems.

the union has been expired for 90 days. Rust declared that Neznik was threatened by Matthes who had a warrant issued against the organizer.

Neznik, a member of the bartender's union committee, announced that 21 out of 24 grills in the city had renewed contracts and that the three-refusing to sign were being picketed. They include the Crescent Cafe, Stag Cafe and Schmutzler's Cafe, all located on the city square.

Meanwhile police received complaints from Ivan Berrier, 105 East First street, and Frank Scheurer, 121 East Fourth street, that striking truck-drivers at the Cement Products plant on Park avenue east had filled the gasoline tanks of their private automobiles with gravel and cement.

The two complaints are members of Common Laborers and Hod-carriers, Local 1216. The union members refused to go to work at the plant earlier in the week in sympathy with four truck drivers of Local 46, who are asking for shorter hours and a wage increase.

The laborers, however, returned to their jobs after union heads ordered them to do so. Police said that the truck-drivers might have filled the gas tanks "in spite" because of the laborers' return to the plant.

The bartenders at the three picketed grills are asking a shorter work week, according to Neznik. At present, they work 54 hours a week and wish to have the week cut to 48 hours without a pay change.

Although Neznik said no pay increase was being asked, Matthes declared that the bartenders were asking a $5 a week increase in wages and a 30-day dismissal notice.

MOOSE START BUSINESS, GET SET FOR PARADE

Delegates Speeding Through Routine Sessions; 4,000 To Be Here Tomorrow.

most colorful Mansfield has seen in years, Dent predicted.

Seated on the judging stand in Central park tomorrow will be Harvey Bailey, Donald Cram, Ned Brooks, Howard Wenning and Russell Gimbel all of Mansfield, to distribute $400 in prize money to the best exhibits in the parade, Dent added.

Given a civic welcome at a public meeting at the Moose temple last night men and women of the Moose (lodge and auxiliary members are conducting separate conventions), started their business meetings on schedule this morning.

Meetings called were of the rules, judiciary and resolutions committees. Because Clarence Snyder, chairman of the resolutions committee had not arrived at the appointed time this morning, lodge spokesmen believed a report of the resolutions would be delayed until sometime tomorrow.

Following the three morning committee meetings, members of the executive and nominating committees began business in the forenoon, hoping to be able to prepare their reports in time for the opening business session slated for the Grotto hall this afternoon.

This evening after a dinner at North Lake park pavilion for state and supreme lodge officers more than 400 recent candidates for admission into the Mansfield lodge will be initiated at the Eagles hall. They will be addressed by Leo Ryan, supreme councilman from Bradford, Pa.

Entertainment and dancing at Moose hall will conclude convention activities today as yesterday.

Arriving in time for the civic meeting last night were Robert Knee, state lodge secretary from Dayton; Judge Willard Campbell, state lodge president from Cambridge; Mary Wallace, from Cincinnati, grand national regent of the women of the Moose, and J. Jack Stocher, regional Moose director.

Stoeher said this morning he expected James J. Davis, U. S. senator from Pennsylvania, who is director general in the Moose organization, and M. M. Neely, supreme governor-elect and governor of West Virginia, to arrive this evening or tomorrow morning.

Tomorrow at an alumni banquet following the parade both Davis and Neeley will address 500 members of the Moose who were able to purchase tickets, Earl McFarland, convention chairman, said.

Unfinished business, ritual and drill team contests will take up tomorrow morning, with an officers' luncheon breakfast scheduled for the noon hour.

Concluding their convention Sunday members of the Moose will attend services at the Mansfield churches and a fellowship lunch at the Mansfield-Leland.

The first meeting of the newly elected and appointed state officers will follow.

At the civic welcome meeting Mayor W. J. Locke welcomed delegates and responses were given by Robert Knee, state secretary; Judge Willard Campbell, state president; Mary Wallace, grand national regent of the Women of the Moose; and Jack Stoehr, regional director for the Moose. Stoehr said that the Mansfield lodge represented as fine organization as he had seen anywhere in the United States.

NITRO EXPLODES

Two Killed as Blast 'Erases' Truck and Driver.

BRADFORD, Pa.— (INS)— Two men were killed and a third was injured critically today when a truck carrying nitro-glycerine exploded suddenly on a highway about 10 miles west of Bradford.

The victims were J. Clifford Martin, 50, secretary of the Bradford district, Pennsylvania Grade Producers association, and the unidentified driver of the truck.

Clarendon Streeter, 45, millionaire oil producer driving a car in which Martin was a passenger and which was following the truck, was taken to Bradford hospital, where attaches said they did not think he would live. All traces of the nitro-glycerine truck and its driver were completely obliterated by the tremendous explosion.

was visible as far south as Florida and west to St. Louis, but was most pronounced in the northeastern states.

The lights were attributed by Dr. J. J. Nassau of Case School of Applied Science in Cleveland to sun spots observed during the day.

"The lights probably were 100 miles above us," he explained, "and were caused by the unusual radiation from the sun which excited the atoms of the earth's rare air."

Dr. Nassau said maximum sun spots and display of the Aurora Borealis should have occurred in 1938, according to previous calculations, adding "this beats anything we saw then."

The magnetic storm accompanying the lights in various parts of the country disrupted telegraph communications temporarily causing newspaper teletype-machines to deliver "garbled copy."

The disturbance to communication lines was felt in the United States as far west as Albuquerque, N. M. Telegraph companies reported their worst difficulties in an area north of the Ohio river and east of the Mississippi.

London reported communication in all parts of the world was awry. Australia was cut off from the island for long stretches and cables to America were scrambled.

Citizens along the eastern seaboard repeatedly called the coast guard to ask if naval forces were holding a searchlight drill or if the lights were caused by a German plane.

RENEW DRIVE ON 2 FRONTS TO LIFT AAA PENALTY ON WHEAT

The campaign to repeal the 49-cent government penalty on wheat was renewed today on two fronts.

In Washington, Congressman J. Harry McGregor, representing Richland county and the 17th district, demanded action on new legislation to exempt the 1941 wheat crop from the tax, asserting that protesting farmers in Ohio are being forced to pay the penalty as a result of President Roosevelt's veto of an earlier bill which would have exempted wheat used for feeding and other domestic purposes.

In Richland county, H. H. Fackler of Plymouth, chairman of the Tax Free Wheat Association of Richland county, challenged AAA officials to a debate on the merits of the wheat quotas and penalty.

If the debate materialized, the protesting farmers would be represented by two national or state officers of groups opposing the penalty. State and county AAA officials would choose their speakers.

The question proposed by Fackler is: "Resolved, that the AAA marketing quotas and the penalty taxes are in the public interest and beneficial to the social and economic welfare of the farmers and in accordance with the fundamental law of the United States."

Congressman McGregor said he had requested the house agriculture committee to hold hearings on the bill to permit domestic use of excess wheat during the current crop year.

McGregor said there was no logic in the president's argument that marketing of the wheat might be necessary to keep down prices. While advancing this argument, McGregor said, the administration was allowing the importation of 1,500,000 bushels a month from Canada in direct competition with United States growers.

The Ohioan added that he had been unable to obtain from the agriculture department information on the amount of the tariff on Canadian wheat. He said he understood it did not exceed nine cents a bushel.

SUIT REQUESTS RETURN OF FUND

Mansfield Woman Claims Sum of $15,725 Invested In Homes She Didn't Get.

Claiming that she was influenced to invest her life savings of $15,725 in real estate only to find that she does not own the property, Miss Charlotte Culler, 394½ South Main street, a nurse, has filed a suit in common pleas court today to require Otto C. and Ruby E. Wittmer, 385 Davis road, to account for the money she spent and the earnings from six properties which she believes belong to her.

Miss Culler contends she turned the money over to Wittmer over a nine-year period beginning in 1930, on his promise to invest it for her in real estate.

She learned about two years ago that Wittmer had six Mansfield properties in his name while she was receiving nothing on her "investments" and had no deeds to show ownership, her petition states.

She asks that the properties be held in trust for her benefit, that the defendants be required to account for the money she turned over to them, that a receiver be appointed for the holdings, and that the properties be sold if necessary to pay her back the amount she invested.

Judge C. H. Huston granted a temporary order to enjoin the Wittmers from disposing of any of the properties while the suit is pending. Atty. John C. O'Donnell represents Miss Culler.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 19, 1941

"Freedom of the seas" means merely that honest men and governments have a right to use them.

Now that the earlier incident has been almost forgotten, some folks think of it as "Wrong Way Lindbergh."

While school children are being deprived of studying European geography they might devote a little time to learning the names of the counties that bound Richland.

Legion Enlarges Defense Scope

ACCEPTANCE of conditions as they are, rather than as we would like to have them, is seen in the American Legion's reversal of its long-time opposition to sending another expeditionary force to foreign soil.

Members of the American Legion know the realities of war probably better than any other large group in this country and their consistent attitude has been against involvement in another "foreign" war but patriotically favorable to development of strong national defense.

Now, it appears from action taken at their national convention held this week in Milwaukee, that Legionnaires are convinced that defeat of Hitlerism is essential to American defense and that "if fighting is necessary to defend the United States we insist upon being prepared to do the fighting outside of the United States."

The sterling Americanism of the Legion is evidenced in these resolutions:

"WE approve and endorse the foreign policy of the president and the congress;

"WE urge the immediate repeal of the so-called neutrality act;

"WE urge all Americans to join us in a united, wholehearted and unswerving support of our government's foreign policy, to the end that the American way of life may survive in a world of free men."

It was also sensibly decided that while the Legion maintains an unchanged attitude against Communism, the defeat of Hitler is "our present national objective" and that it is a matter of good strategy to help Russia in its fight against the Nazis.

Railroad Moves Giant Ore Train

A RECORD ore train of 125 cars, carrying 13,568 tons of iron ore and moved by four engines—two in front pulling and two behind pushing—attracted considerable attention the other day. Its movement was a feat of the Cleveland division of the Pennsylvania railroad, and the ore was being taken from lake front ore docks to steel mills at Youngstown and Sharpsville, Pa.

Watching railroad trains is one childhood pleasure which usually carries over into adult life in America, and the reporter who rode the train and wrote the story about it seems to have been as thrilled as his readers. He thought the assembling and moving of the record train was "a masterpiece of co-ordination." And so it was.

The way the four locomotives "functioned as one," the way the conductor kept in telephonic communication with the four engineers, and the way the dispatcher controlled everything from the home station, were all a revelation to the reporter. This is just one of the many big jobs the railroads are handling today, reminding the public that they aren't obsolete and proving their efficiency in meeting the tremendous demands put upon them by the biggest defense job the nation ever tackled.

'Protective Buying' Overdone

"PROTECTIVE BUYING," according to the current report of a large bank in the Middle West, amounts to an "industrial ailment". Manufacturers' inventories are now the highest on record, goods in process of manufacture are 50 per cent above the level of a year ago, while raw materials owned by manufacturers are up only 20 per cent and finished goods show a 5 per cent drop.

The condition is "chronic and pervades the entire society," the bank review goes on to say. Non-defense industries have bought ahead. Government departments have done so, too, and "women have stormed the store counters." Manufacturers have sought to avoid a possible future forced redistribution of raw materials by putting a considerable quantity of them through one or more stages of manufacture and then holding them in that form. They have been willing to tie up capital in the "dead storage of goods" because of low interest rates. Yet this so-called protection has not been really sound.

Perhaps only time and experience will show its full effects. An immediate result, the bank experts believe, has been too slow production of defense goods.

'Medicine Man' Not Extinct

TO A GOOD MANY contemporary, city-bred Americans the words "medicine show" connote something they have read about but never actually seen. The old time medicine man with his frock coat, his medicine that would cure anything-or-your money-back, and the horse-drawn wagon standing in the glow of blazing torchlights, is a character they know only through fiction or social history.

But the medicine man is not extinct. He is hawking his wares and entertaining audiences in many corners of the United States. One such is "Doc" Dean, a modern fellow who has streamlined his show and proved his right to the title with his own persuasive speech.

Dean's "wagon" is a shiny, up-to-date trailer. It has its own complete electric lighting system and a stage worthy of a small theater. The "Doc" has abandoned the flowing tie and curling mustache, but his sales talk is time-tested. "And if that medicine doesn't do everything I say it will, just tote it back to me tomorrow night and I'll buy it back."

Well, sir, the gentleman entertains good-sized crowds to the apparent general satisfaction. In one Illinois stand he "played" to an audience of "hundreds in cars parked in a semi-circle around the platform and to hundreds of others who brought their own chairs." They didn't all buy his medicine, but some did, and he promised to come back next year. Never say Americans have no traditions — or that Barnum was wrong in his estimate that "one is born every minute."

Hearing that Hitler plans to press on in Russia regardless of the elements, a reader remarks, "Maybe he doesn't know that in Russia the elements never forget."

Scientists have named one particular variety of mosquito the Damnosus—but this seems applicable to all of them.

THE FALL HUNTING SEASON IS ON

Byrd Prods Defense Lag, Waste

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—A list of this administration's one-time friends, appointees or otherwise favored persons who have become critical thorns in the administration's side would be longer than your arm.

High up on that list is the genial gentleman from Virginia, Sen. Harry Flood Byrd, who, after a year of comparative quiet while stringing along with the president's foreign policies, has busted loose again with one of the strongest denunciations of the defense production lag that has come from any Democratic quarter.

Although it never was widely known and now is almost forgotten, it was President Roosevelt who opened the door of the United States senate for the former Virginia governor.

At one time, before the pre-nomination campaign of 1932, Byrd was Roosevelt's selection for chairman of the national Democratic committee. Byrd would have had the post too, but John J. Raskob didn't resign as expected. After Roosevelt's first election, however, he was in position to bring Byrd to the senate—by appointing Virginia Senator Claude A. Swanson as secretary of the navy. Byrd then was appointed to succeed Swanson, and has held the seat ever since.

Opposed Pump-Priming.

SENATOR BYRD hardly had taken his seat before his differences with the administration became apparent. As governor, he had balanced the Virginia budget and drastically reorganized the state government, much to the consternation and unhappiness of the bureaucrats.

Pump-priming with government funds wasn't his idea of the way to float the country out of the depression. Expansion of government through the establishment of many new bureaus and agencies wasn't his idea of economy. The new senator said so.

Byrd has been saying it ever since, and in such language that he almost always makes himself heard. This prodding of administration policies continued through the reorganization fights, the court bill fight, various relief expenditures, the NRA, the labor relations bill and continuation of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Almost always, Byrd drove his wedge at the weakest point. It hurt.

Therefore, it must have been some relief to administration leaders when the junior senator from Virginia went all out for the president's foreign policies. It must have lightened the load considerably for the men who carry the load on Capitol Hill to find one of the senate's chief foes of spending in the administration camp during the scrap for those vast outlays for national defense.

Quiet Long Enough.

THEY should have known that it was too good to last. About a year ago, Senator Byrd threw out a hint when he opened up on the snail's pace with which defense production was getting under way. Then, according to his own statement, he kept quiet just to see if the snarls wouldn't unravel by themselves.

He thinks they haven't. So now, the apple king from Virginia (his apple orchards are among the largest in the country) and newspaper publisher he has papers at Winchester and Harrisonburg) is at it again. His goal is elimination of waste in the defense effort; an approach to the all-out production which he feels the appropriations warrant; and a one-man defense production head.

You'll probably be hearing a lot from Byrd of Virginia in the months to come.

Speaking of Alimony

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

SO MR. JONES isn't going to get alimony from his wealthy ex-wife. And there'll be many a snicker because he sued for it.

I wonder why!

When Jonesy and his lady first got married, they intended to live happily for ever and ever. Whatever the intention, the romance went blooey. And recent court action revealed Jones suing for divorce, claiming that he was ill and penniless while his wife was amply provided for by trust funds created in her family. Which plea, however, rated exactly nothing with His Honor. So Jones is hitting the asphalt today sans alimony and with large numbers of citizens giving him the razz. Again I wonder why?

WHY SHOULD IT BE ANY MORE SHAMEFUL OR SILLY FOR A DIVORCED MAN TO SUE HIS WIFE FOR ALIMONY, THAN FOR HIS WIFE TO SUE HIM?

No one can see. Personally, I think this whole matter of alimony is a blot on any "civilized" record. Nor can I understand how any woman with a shred of pride would accept support from a man with whom she did not live and for whom she refused to make a home.

Child support that's something else BUT WHY SHOULD AN INTELLIGENT, EDUCATED WOMAN DEMAND ALL THE GUARANTEED RIGHTS OF FREEDOM AND EQUALITY . . . YET REPUDIATE THE RESPONSIBILITY WHICH GOES WITH SUCH RIGHTS?

The answer is she shouldn't!!

If a woman is fit to vote . . . if a woman is fit to hold a job and mold her city's and her nation's destiny . . . then that woman is also to pay for her power. And by the same token she should pay the price for the privilege she demands.

No wife or mother can be a clinging vine one day and a sturdy oak the next. If a father's cooperation is necessary on January 31 it is equally necessary on February 1 and should receive full recognition and respect.

And, under no circumstances should the youngster be involved, either as accessory or alibi.

IN OTHER WORDS — YOU CAN'T EAT YOUR MARRIAGE LICENSE AND HAVE IT TOO, MAMA. YOU'RE EQUAL OR YOU AREN'T, AND IF YOU AREN'T, THE BIG BOY SHOULD HAVE HIS SHARE OF THE BREAKS.

Which may sound flippant, but isn't. It's written with deep pity for all parties concerned . . . for the child, cheated by both of those who should have protected him . . . for the man and woman who have been equally deprived of the dearest dream the human heart can cherish. No one can restore or revive that dream. But we can, at least, respect fair play. And uphold it in our courts. So I'm saying:

IF THERE MUST BE SNICKERS, LET THEM FALL ON MALE AND FEMALE QUITTERS ALIKE. SEX MAKES NO DIFFERENCE WHEN IT COMES TO SLACKERS.

(Copyright, 1941)

Huge Profits on Naval Contracts Causes FDR to Favor Limitation

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The president, who has a weak spot for anyone building warships, saw the other day some confidential figures on terrific profits being made by the shipyards, which astounded him.

The figures were shown him by Representative Carl Vinson, chairman of the house naval affairs committee, who always has favored limiting the profits of the munitions makers. As a result of these confidential figures, Vinson got the green light from Roosevelt to introduce new legislation drastically limiting profits.

The profits which the Georgia congressman showed Roosevelt made the cost of labor strikes in national defense plants insignificant in comparison. One company making ordnance instruments for the navy has rolled up a neat profit of 208 per cent. Some plane manufacturers are making as high as 150 per cent, while the big shipbuilders are averaging 72 per cent on government contracts.

During the early days of the New Deal, Representative Vinson, the late Senator Trammell of Florida got legislation passed limiting profits on all navy contracts to 8 per cent. But last year, when the big new defense program was started, the admirals persuaded congress to drop this limitation on profits. They claimed that it was slowing up national defense, and that industry wouldn't bid on navy contracts because profits were limited.

However, Vinson now has a surprise in store for the navy contractors. Instead of the previous profit limitation of 8 per cent, profits would now be limited to 7 per cent. This was OK'd by the president. Edmund Toland, chief counsel of Vinson's defense investigating committee, is already drafting the legislation.

Capital Chaff.

THE strike-ridden Federal Shipbuilding company at Kearney, N. J., is being operated by the government, but that doesn't end the matter. Jesse Jones has been negotiating with the U. S. Steel company, which owns the plant, for a temporary lease for the emergency. But this has failed, and Uncle Sam will now take over the plant permanently, operating it as a regular navy yard. . . . Brain Truster Ben Cohen turned down a chance to go to Moscow and advise the American embassy there . . . Hitler is determined to take Leningrad and raze it to the ground. But his tactics toward Odessa are different. That city is too valuable as a Black Sea port and the Nazis don't want to destroy it. But they are forced to shell it just the same . . . Senators Hiram Johnson of California and Clark of Missouri are hoping to hamstring the president's request for five billions more of lend-lease funds by offering resolutions defining "waters essential to the defense of the Americas." The strategy is to narrow American waters from their present sweep to Iceland, thus keep American warships at home.

7,500,000 Chevrons.

YES, it is true that the army has ordered 7,500,000 chevrons for the sleeves of soldiers. There are two explanations of the tremendous size of this order. One comes from a golf club locker room, the other from the war department.

In the locker room, after a golf match, the head of General Coal company was kidding his friend, the head of Middlesex Lace and Embroidery company, of South River, N. J.

"Too bad you make lace articles," said the coal king. "This defense business means nothing to you."

Responded the lace man, "Believe it or not, I'm working on an order for 200,000 sergeant's chevrons, and I've just returned from Washington, where I got an order for 2,000,000 more.

"When I said there must be some mistake, unless they intended to make every soldier a sergeant, they explained that everything is ordered ten times in excess of actual requirements and stored away in warehouses, in case of emergency, such as bombing."

The official explanation is different. War department explains the need for millions of chevrons this way:

Each soldier who rates chevrons needs not one set but sixteen, for use on 4 cotton work shirts, 3 cotton tea shirts, 2 wool shirts, 1 cotton field jacket, 1 wool coat, 1 mackinaw—plus four extras for replacement.

Vandenberg Says.

EBULLIENT Senator Vandenberg of Michigan strode briskly into the senate cloakroom shortly after the details of the Churchill-Roosevelt conference were made public.

"Well, the country is safe at last," announced the Republican senator, "absolutely safe. Elliott Roosevelt and Franklin, Junior, both took part in the conference with Churchill. So the country can now breathe easy.

"And I'll bet Eleanor is hopping mad because she wasn't there too."

Note—The president gave as the explanation for having his two sons present the fact that they "happened" to be in the New England area.

Harriman and Stalin.

WHEN Averill Harriman sits down at the conference table with Josef Stalin this week, two men will come face to face who represent the complete antitheses of the economic world.

Stalin, a Communist, believes in state-owned railroads, telegraphs, banks, factories.

Harriman, a capitalist, is the chief owner of the Union Pacific Railroad, chairman of the Illinois Central, director of Western Union, and helps control various other big business enterprises.

Furthermore, Harriman comes from a background which represents American cut-throat capitalism at its peak. His father, the famous Edward H. Harriman, first built the Union Pacific Railroad, then engaged in a race with Jim Hill to control the Northern Pacific, a race which did not end Wall Street.

Today, Averill Harriman, far more liberal than his father, is something of a New Dealer, but still a long, long way from Josef Stalin. In fact he and Stalin already have come to grips. This was after Harriman had signed a contract with the Soviet government to develop its manganese deposits in the Caucasus.

The contract was perfectly legal and Harriman already had started investing his money, which among other things was to go toward the construction of a railroad.

However, the Soviet government changed its mind. Stalin decided that these vast manganese deposits should be developed in accordance with Communist methods. After considerable argument, a settlement was made with Harriman, but even so he lost a sizeable amount of money.

Today, however, Harriman bears no grudge against the Soviet. And the fact that he was appointed to do business with Stalin indicates the new and weird cooperation between capitalists and Communists—at least as far as regards Adolf Hitler.

Tucker Takes Look Around

—By GEORGE TUCKER

MIAMI—Dave Fleischer hopes to go to town in a big way just as soon as "Mr. Bug Goes to Town" . . . Mr. Bug will have about seven tons of assorted watercolors on his neck as soon as they get through with him here in Miami at the Fleischer studios. Mr. Bug is a feature length animated cartoon motion picture, and as Fleischer and his associates crowd into September's dying days they see the end in sight. This means 18 months of continuous effort, of consultation, of pencil sketches, of paint mixing, of photography, of hustle and bustle and—above all—a study of bugs.

I think they have a unique idea behind this picture . . . The characters all are insects . . . They sit around and mourn over what a menace "the human ones" are . . . Well, why not? . . . A man throws away a lighted cigar stub—and cremates a whole colony of beetles. . . . A little boy kicks a tincan—and brings disaster to a family of crickets . . . It goes like that . . . It has real pathos, and it is a study in life that will intrigue adults as well as children.

WE SPENT most of a day just ambling about the studios . . . Some of it was in the paint shop, where James Lunnon, who used to be a color expert for Rolls Royce in New York, has sole charge of the tremendous task of creating just the right tints and shadings of the colors to be used. He has more than 4500 different colors and tones.

Then we went to the screening room and saw a motion picture composed only of vague pencil outline drawings . . . In this business you don't wait until the product is finished to look at it . . . You sketch out the action and throw it onto the screen and study it in embryo . . . Editing is done then and there . . . Then black and white is added, and rescreened . . . If it looks good then, background and color are added . . . It was fascinating to see this film in pencil sketch, followed immediately by several reels of the finished color product.

FLEISCHER works hard and he fishes hard . . . On the walls of the Museum of Natural History in New York is a rare Hound Fish, caught by him . . . On his office wall is a beautiful sailfish, the only one he has ever caught. . . . The other morning he had a monster on his hook for more than two hours . . . It got away and he hasn't the slightest idea what it was.

But, for the moment, fish take second place in his affections. He's thinking of Hoppity, who is Mr. Bug in this animated venture that costs so many hundreds of thousands of dollars to produce . . . Mr. Bug in Dave's life becomes Mr. Big . . . If the picture wins, Dave wins and all his associates win . . . If it doesn't, well, there's always the Atlantic ocean. I am not a confirmed fan of animated cartoon movies . . . I never have recommended one before . . . I didn't even go for "Snow White." . . . Somehow, I feel that this has an inner pathos that is very human, and therefore worthwhile, and if I didn't think so I wouldn't say it.

LIFE'S LIKE THAT

"Sometimes I envy him. . . . He doesn't have to think."

A Farmer's Diary

'Old Aunt Mary'

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

AUNT MARY is 83. For seven years past, she has lived alone in the old drab house that has been her home for more than a half century. High up on the hill it stands with a thrifty locust grove to the north and east. This used to be the orchard before these young locusts took possession. Still the large old trunks are visible and in places are heaps of reddish dust where a giant tree has fallen.

Some weeks ago I met Aunt Mary coming up the road on her way to town. Her thin wrinkled face beneath an old-time short bonnet was drawn almost in pain as she made each step. She had a cane in one hand and the old family umbrella in the other, for it looked like rain. Her spare form was stooped and her aged hands shook slightly as she pressed down upon these two supports. Her progress was slow and tedious.

I waited by the corner to ask her to ride with me.

"Why yes, thank ye, I'd be glad to, if 'twouldn't put you out too much. I started nigh an hour ago, and I'm not half way yet. My telephone bill is due and I needed to go to the bank."

I opened the car door and she lifted first one protesting foot and then the other, with difficulty, to the running board. After many cautious movements, she was finally seated in the back.

"This is a common road to me," she said. "But I don't travel it much no more. It's nigh 60 years since we made our home up there and I reckon it'll be home as long as I need one. My relatives lives away—out in Indianny. They're allus invitin' me to live with them, but even though they're kind an' all, it ain't one third the freedom I'm havin' here. I was there once, and all they'd let me do was dress myself and eat my meals. A body can't just live that way—a body needs somethin' to be at. That's why I'm stayin' up here. It makes a person feel much older and nearer the time they'll have to go, when they're waited on too much."

When I took her back and turned into the rough stony drive, she smiled and said, "My, I'm glad to be home again." The distance to the house was only 50 feet, but I waited many minutes before I saw her step safely on her own porch.

Yesterday when I went by she had gathered a meager pile of bark and sticks for firewood. I saw her reach for the ax beside a pile of slabs and try to cut one through. Her strokes were true but light. They only seemed to dent the seasoned wood. I watched her work until her efforts pained me, when in disgust she dropped the ax and gathered an armful of sticks — like the Mountain Woman of Dubose Heyward's poem—and went laboredly to the house.

GUN CARRIAGE SERVES AS ARMY 'PAY WINDOW'

Military Police Guard Stacks Of Money on Pay-Day During Maneuvers.

By NORMAN WALKER

WITH THE ARMIES ON MANEUVERS IN LOUISIANA—(SNS—Deep in the pine forests a steel gun carriage often substitutes for a teller's window on the army's pay-day in the field

From great bags of cash Uncle Sam's troops of the second and third armies, numbering more than 500,000 men, get their salaries paid in bills and coin right out in the open under the trees.

Shaded bivouac areas become impregnable banks when the soldiers line up before their finance outfits for disbursement of the huge $20,000,000 pay roll for both armies, and would-be hijackers wouldn't have a chinaman's chance.

For this is one part of the war games that isn't simulated. Grim military police with real ammunition keep close scrutiny over the big financial transaction, armed to the teeth with cannon, tommy guns and pistols.

A soldier's pay-day always comes on the last day of the month but, as in the field that day finds him often engaged in the realistic battling or otherwise on the move, commanders wait a day or so until things settle down to a comparative lull before paying off.

The exact day therefore is kept a closely guarded secret as a further precaution and pay-day is something of a mild surprise for the troops. Deeply secretive, too, are plans for the cash shipments into the maneuver area under heavy guard from federal reserve banks.

Lieutenant Colonel R. D. Daugherty's third army finance office estimates that at the approximate $40 average pay for officers and enlisted men, the combined pay rolls for the 350,000 men in the third army and 175,000 of the second army total at least $20,000,000.

Naturally soldiers are fond of their paymaster buddies, and the finance men, non-combatants in the war games, respond to the affection by paying off as promptly as possible even under the difficulties which arise in carrying on business in the field. In real war soldiers would wait for their pay until relieved of front line duty.

"We figure a soldier is disappointed if he isn't paid on time," said Captain P. A. Mayo, finance officer for the streamlined second triangular division of army regulars. "So in the interest of morale, for one thing, we always pay promptly."

Captain Mayo with the 18 assistants in his finance section often have worked right on figuring pay rolls through fierce barrages near the front lines here because, as neutrals, opposing forces simply fight around them.

When the section with its electrically-operated adding machines fed with a portable electric generator and other equipment, finishes it knows exactly how many nickels, dimes, quarters and bills of each denomination it'll need to meet pay roll and expense money due the men.

Then it sends in a requisition to a bank for the sum, advises when its armed guard will call for the money and later delivers a check and picks up the cash at the prescribed time. Each division of 15,000 to 18,000 troops has paying agents for different companies and other units who get their exact proper share in bags and tend to the personal distribution.

It always comes out right to the last copper cent.

Georgia Youth Eats Way Into Naval Reserve

ROME, Ga. — (NS) — Hugh R. Best, of Rome, Ga., has eaten his way into the U. S. naval reserve, but he doesn't recommend his method to others.

Finding himself 16 pounds shy of navy requirements, Best launched a one-month campaign to make up the deficit. But when the day of the examination rolled round, he still needed four pounds.

Undaunted, he bought four pounds of bananas and started off to the Atlanta recruiting office, stuffing them down as he went.

Bulging with bananas, Best passed the test. But no one even asked his weight.

"We have orders that if you are just a few pounds under weight we take you in," the recruiting officer explained.

Best cooled his wrath with a banana split.

Iceland Patrol: No. 4

It's All-America Team vs. Ocean

By MORGAN M. BEATTY
(AP Feature Service Writer)

ABOARD U. S. NAVAL PATROL BOMBER OVER THE ATLANTIC—Men live a stream-lined life in these big aluminum tunnels. Everything's planned just like it is in those folding stove and bed apartments in New York, only ten times more so.

The men around me in this tiny speck over the ocean are all plain, alert, healthy Americans. They hail from various parts of the United States, have all kinds of backgrounds.

Take our commanding officer. He's from Washington, D. C. A few short years ago he was romping up and down football fields, urged on by thousands of fans. All-America mention, too.

He's calling signals up front right now, but they're vastly more complicated—and important—out here in mid-Atlantic. A slip means precious lives—trained lives—and taxpayers' money. There are poise and authority in his mature face.

The navigator's from the Midwest. His is the same small town background I know so well. The radio operator's a New Englander, sharp featured. He's got nimble fingers, a quick mind. Crazy about radio since childhood. Now he's doing the ultra-ultra kind boys dream about, and he loves it. He works out our position on a direction finder, gets the same answer as the navigator. Quite a feat.

Accents are mixed. Piercing New England twang relays orders. A southern drawl shoots back "Aye, aye, sir." Nasal Midwestern farmer voices tell us to come forward to balance ship for the take-off.

A gunner comes from the southwest. I talk to him in the center section, where bunk bedding muffles the noise.

"Good jobs were scarce in Little Rock," he says. "Dad works in the postoffice. I'd pick him up often. I got to talking to the Navy recruiting officers in the postoffice building a couple of years ago—and here I am with a steady job."

At this time of year the men wear summer weight coveralls that zip up all over the body. Watch them get in and out of this gear and you're reminded of an actor making a quick change. Some use flying helmets. Some don't. There are white caps cocked over eyes, just like you see them ashore; blue toboggan caps too.

The navigator sometimes wears the tradition aerial navigator's cap. Like a baseball or jockey cap. Each squadron has its special color or combination. The cap seems odd up here, but it protects the eyes from brilliant cloud glare and you can wear the headphones over them.

The Navy has put itself out for the comfort of these crews within the limits of military efficiency. They have special flying rations, a large seabag full of vitamin-packed food. The bread isn't white like a bakery's but infinitely better than any of the advertised kinds. They bake it aboard the floating base.

And do these boys annihilate the rations!

"We seem to get hungrier on these long flights," says the navigator chopping down on a fig newton. Many sweets for quick energy; they need them. They're constantly climbing through, up down and around.

The Navy wastes no weight or space in these patrol bombers on bathrooms and lavatories. Water comes in aluminum cylinders about the size of big fire extinguishers. There's little shaving or handwashing aboard. Some of the men, especially the mecks (mechanics) wear beards. They stay aboard more than other members of the crew. Hair is forever mussed. Blame it on headsets.

Close quarters and common concern for safety develop a sense of toleration and comradeship aboard, but nobody wastes time on Alfonse and Gaston gestures.

Some conversation is pantomime, with smiles and frowns and eyebrow lifting. A slice with the hand across the neck means "Cut the engines," or "Bad weather ahead." Everybody seems to understand which. A frown means "I don't understand," a slap of the flat hand at the air means "Never mind."

The most frequent sign is the circle with the thumbs and forefinger. It means, "OK."

The flight commander peers just now through the port, grins a huge grin and makes that sign. We've sighted home base through the haze. Our flight is almost over, and efficiency or no efficiency—I want a good hot shower like nobody's business. This is downright plain hard work.

Tomorrow: Our Floating Base, The Answer To An Airman's Prayer.

THEATERS

Sonja On Ice.

"Sun Valley Serenade," the new show opening Saturday at the Ohio, features Sonja Henie and John Payne and the rhythms of Glenn Miller and his orchestra. It is a gay romantic musical with new skate and ski surprises. Sonja is featured in two new skating ballets and is given an opportunity to show the mastery on ice which won her renown as the World and Olympic Figure Skating champion. Lynn Bari plays the role of Payne's fiancee, who is greatly annoyed by Sonja.

Civil War Era.

The rugged and rip-roaring West of the post—Civil war era with all its gun-play and horse-play is the dramatic setting of the new film opening Saturday at the Madison. Dennis Morgan has the leading role in this film, "Bad Men of Missouri." It is the story of the Younger brothers, and their exciting escapades are depicted in the successor to "Dodge City" and "Santa Fe Trail." Co-attraction is "Tillie, the Toiler," taken from the comic strip and starring a pretty newcomer, Kay Harris.

Story of West.

The traditional chivalry of the trail blazing heroes of the west adds zest to the story, "Cyclone on Horseback," the picture starring Tim Holt. In this show opening today at the Majestic the new addition to the series shows Holt involved in fist fights and roaring gun battles. Marjorie Reynolds, Ray Whitley and Eddie Dew are also in the cast. Co-feature is "Hullabaloo."

American Pioneers.

A favorite cowboy trio, the Three Mesquiteers, are seen in "Prairie Pioneers" at the Park. They appear as American pioneers who settle in California. Murder and intrigue follow with many exciting incidents for the boys, Robert Livingston, Bob Steele and Rufe Davis. "The Gay Vagabond" is the co-feature, starring Roscoe Karns, Ruth Donnelly and Ernest Truex. This is a gay domestic comedy.

Jack Randall Starred.

Jack Randall is starred in the western picture, "Covered Wagon Trails," one of the feature's at the Ritz today and Saturday. Co-attraction is "Knockout," the story of a boy who had to choose between a boxing ring and a wedding ring. Arthur Kennedy, Olympe Bradna and Virginia Field have the leading roles. Virginia has the role of a gold-digging blond who almost ruins Arthur's career and happiness.

WHO SAID DUMB?

KENANSVILLE, N. C.—(AP)—E. G. Pigford's cat and dog earn their keep. All day long, Pigford says, the cat kills grasshoppers that bother his strawberry crop. The dog, after noticing Pigford pulling worms from tobacco plants, took to removing the pests himself and stomping them to death.

A halibut matures at the age of about 11 years, 40 years is a ripe old age.

Noted Lecturer Speaks At Guild Program Here

Out-of-Door Wedding Can Be Perfect

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A day or two ago I received a letter from a very happy girl. I wish there were space enough to print the entire contents, but I'll have to confine myself to telling you about the wedding arrangements, which impress me as charming. The letter started:

"DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

"Well, it's happened at last and I'm just about the happiest girl in the world. One year ago I fell in love with a young man who I thought was unaware of my existence. However, to make a long story short, we're going to be married in September, and the fact that he'll probably be called in the draft very soon does not weigh against our happiness."

The girl lives in Virginia, in a house that once was the center of a large family estate but which has dwindled down to only a couple of acres. She wanted an old-fashioned wedding, but there isn't enough money to spend on an elaborate affair. Being sentimental, she wanted to be married in white, so the bridal dress is to be of white organdy. Her sisters are going to make the dress for her. The veil she will wear was worn at her grandmother's wedding.

The marriage ceremony is to take place in the garden, just before sunset, under a very old oak tree. The entire house will be decorated with wild flowers, which the bride's friends are taking care of. There'll be goldenrod, sumac, Queen Anne's lace, and all the other lovely wild flowers that grow out-of-doors and are to be had for the taking.

The flowers from her mother's old-fashioned garden are to be saved for the table in the dining-room, where a stand-up supper will be served. It will consist of chicken salad, hot biscuits, sandwiches of all sorts, home-made ice-cream, and, of course, the wedding cake.

The wedding cost must be kept down as little as possible. The family she's marrying into must be impressed with the good taste of these arrangements—not only the good taste, but the good will of her friends who love her dearly and are demonstrating how popular she is.

The wedding cake is to be made by the six bridesmaids under the supervision of the high school domestic science teacher. This will fulfill an old tradition that the more hands which stir, the better luck for the newlyweds. Altogether, it's going to be what might be called a "good-will wedding," with the girl's friends showing their genuine friendly interest.

Apart from the charm and simplicity of the wedding, there is the thrift which must appeal to the type of family into which this girl is marrying. They are self-made people who have acquired a good deal of wealth by wise saving and wise expenditure.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"LILLIAN'S?" I echoed in quick alarm, although I had planned to go to my stricken friend as soon as I should have finished what I had to do at the Lansfield. But there was something in my father's voice which made me think something urgent was afoot.

"Do not be alarmed!" he said, answering my unspoken question. "There is nothing particularly new. But I do want to talk to both Lillian and her husband this morning, and I wish you present at the interview. Can you go?"

"Why, of course," I answered promptly. "I had planned to go over there anyway, as soon as I could get away here."

"You can get away, in all probability, in ten minutes, or less, after Richard telephones," he said. "When will that be?"

I looked at my wrist watch, and made a hasty calculation.

In about three-quarters of an hour," I told him.

"Good!" he returned. "I shall be there shortly."

"I shall be ready to go anywhere by that time," I assured him. "Have you had anything to eat?"

Breakfast For Three.

"Eat?" he repeated. "Oh, yes," he added vaguely.

"When?" I asked, for I was on assured feminine ground here. In this field I was the martinet, and he the obedient one, as he very well knew.

"I don't remember," he said as sheepishly as might a small boy caught in a misdemeanor.

"Then," I said with emphasis, "be prepared to breakfast with me shortly after you get here."

"Very well," he said, "if it does not delay our departure for Lillian'. Nothing must do that."

"We shall eat while we are waiting for Dicky's telephone," I told him. "Now, how about Mary? Will you want to see her again, or shall I let her sleep?"

"I would like to say 'let her sleep,'" he rejoined, "but I can't. It is vitally necessary that I see her before I leave for Lillian's."

"She will be ready for you," I assured him, and he shot another question at me.

"Did Ronald telephone?"

"Yes," I replied, "and I gave him your message."

"I will hear the rest of it when I get there," he said abruptly. "Good-bye," and on the word, I hung up the receiver, and rushed into the bedroom, finding Mary awake, but looking up at me so sleepily, that I hated to give her my father's message.

She sprang out of bed, fully galvanized into action before the words were fairly out of my mouth.

"What's the program?" she asked.

"If you'll use the shower first," I said, "I'll order breakfast for Father, you and me. What do you want?"

"Melon, soft-boiled eggs, Melba toast, marmalade and coffee," she said promptly, and I kissed the tips of my fingers to her as she dashed for the bathroom.

"You're such a comfort," I told her. "I detest people who are always undecided about a breakfast order when there is need for haste."

"I learned that long ago," she told me, wrinkling her nose at me, as she went through the bathroom door, and I turned to the telephone, calling room service.

I knew my father's invariable breakfast, melon when in season, bacon and eggs, hot muffins, jam, and coffee, while my own duplicated Mary's because it was too much trouble to think out another menu.

Mary Fears the Quiz.

When I had given the order, and secured the promise of breakfast in 20 minutes, despite the early hour—the fact that Mary was the daughter-in-law of the Lansfield's owner ironed out all difficulties, I found, I laid out my street clothing and changes of my underthings, and gathering them up went to the bathroom, meeting Mary coming out.

"Such a gorgeous shower!" she said. "I feel like a million dollars. I'll get dressed, pronto, so as to do the honors, if you're still dressing when he arrives. But what do you suppose he wants of me again? I've told him everything I know about Steve Redfield."

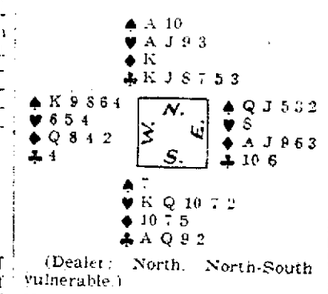
"The Authority on Authorities"

FIGHTING IN THE DARK

If a defender only could have the advantage possessed by the declarer—ability to see what cards were opposite him, in his partner's hand—he could whale the daylights out of plenty of contracts which get made. As it is, he must to a certain extent grope around blindly, making logical moves when nothing but illogical ones can win for him. Sometimes a wily player can take advantage of that by a bid based on the known mental habits of most defenders.



(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	1 ♠	2 ♥	2 ♠
4 ♥	4 ♠	5 ♥	Pass
6 ♥	6 ♠	Pass	Pass

The bidding went about as given, at several tables of a duplicate tournament. In one case North then doubled the 6-Spades and it was set two, with one trick each in spades, hearts and clubs.

At several tables North bid 6-No Trumps over the 6-Spades, expecting the diamond K to be a stopper if the suit was led. In one of these cases East bid 7-Spades, was doubled and went down three tricks.

At two tables East and West let 6-No Trumps stand, in the hope of setting it. Both the top score and the bottom score for each side came from that contract. In neither case was a spade led. East trying a surprise lead of diamonds. Where it was the diamond 6, North won with his singleton K and ran all of the tricks. At the other table East laid down his diamond A, West playing the 9, so he repeated the suit, which they ran, beating the contract four tricks.

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

Why should North prefer 6-Hearts as a final declaration on this deal instead of 6-No Trumps, after hearing his partner bid both spades and hearts?

Lively and interesting conditions should prevail this day, with many important developments along expensive and progressive lines. Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of large opportunity for success, accumulation, expansion and growth, with openings with large corporations, political or fraternal bodies, although these are beset with dangers and defeats, loss or litigation, because of over-optimism, extravagance, unwarranted outlay or expenditures, as well as personal indulgences or excesses. GEN. JOHNSON:

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON — One pain in the neck in a good deal of the current foreign discussion is that we should get into this war because, after all, it's our fault and our responsibility. If we had just stood by France and England and remained in the League of Nations, Hitler would never have gotten a start and all this welter of blood and fire would have been avoided. We helped win World war one and then quit the boys cold. So does the argument.

Johnson

But, what are the facts? Of course, it is true that we did help win the war and didn't enter the league, but England and France did enter the league. When the war was over they had such a vast predominance of power that Germany couldn't have made a move at rearmament or a gesture at aggression without their assent or at least compliance. That condition remained for at least 15 years—until 1933, when Hitler started, and perhaps much longer.

It is now clear also that that dominant condition of theirs could not possibly have been created without our all-out effort with men and ships and money and guns in 1918 and after. We not only left the peace of Europe in their hands but we helped make those hands strong enough to maintain it forever.

They just didn't do it. When Hitler began to erupt, France wanted to stop him but Britain was looking the other way. When Mussolini began to go off the reservation in Ethiopia, Britain wanted to stop him but France was too busy tying a shoe-lace.

What could we have done in either case—even if we had been in the league? These league members, amply enabled by our action to act in their own defense, wouldn't do anything. They just let Hitler ride. We were in another minor league—the nine power pact to watch over the integrity of China. So was Britain. When Japan began grabbing parts of China, Harry Stimson smelled "the battle afar off" and wanted to do something about it. This time it was Britain who was too busy to play.

This is no time to rake up past mistakes but some are being raked up and charged to our account without justice. This about our negligence is one of them. If we ever get into a position of guaranteeing the peace of the world we shall have covered too much territory as our present experience ought to be enough to prove.

Whatever is done we are going to pay for it. There just isn't enough money in this or any other country.

The sad aspect of this particular panning of Uncle Sam is that much of it is being done by members of his own family. It is true that the British have long been saying something like this But they have been careful in saying that we are not doing enough to help them now. They are beginning to say so and, if the years following the last war are any criterion, what they are beginning to say now is a mild tabloid edition of what they will say later.

LUKENS GOES TO PEN MONDAY FOR CHURCH SLAYING

Given Life Sentence After Jury Deliberates For Almost 29 Hours.

(By Associated Press)

AKRON—Albert B. Lukens will be taken to Ohio penitentiary next Monday to begin serving a life sentence for the slaying of 24-year-old Ruth Zwicker, the music teacher whose body was cremated last Easter morning in a furnace at the North Hill Methodist church.

The former church janitor, 58, was convicted yesterday by a jury of nine men and three women, who after nearly 29 hours of deliberation found him guilty of first degree murder, with a recommendation of mercy.

E. Guy Hammond, Lukens' counsel, said his client "does not feel justice has been done, but feels rather that he has been the victim of extraordinary circumstances." He signified his intention of appealing the case.

The dead woman's father, Arthur M. Zwicker, expressed disappointment at the verdict. "I think he should be sentenced to the chair," he said.

Miss Zwicker had gone to the church for piano practice the day before Easter Sunday and when she did not return, her father began searching for her. He testified during the trial that Lukens helped him look through the many rooms of the church. A sort time later detectives found charred human remains in ashes removed from one of the church furnaces, and Lukens was arrested.

The defendant made two statements, each time contending that he had asked Miss Zwicker for a kiss, and that she fell against the piano her death resulting from a head injury

Victim's Mother Plans Campaign.

AKRON —(U.P.) Mrs. A. W. Zwicker, mother of Ruth Zwicker, church organist, who was killed last April 12, said today she will campaign for enactment of an Ohio law designating unauthorized creamation a crime.

Mrs. Zwicker was in the court room yesterday when Albert Lukens, 58, was sentenced to life imprisonment for the first degree murder of her daughter. Lukens admitted he cremated the girl's body but this is not a crime in Ohio.

"It is a terrible thing" Mrs. Zwicker said, if a criminal by cremating a body can escape full punishment for his crime."

The manhole cover for the sanitary sewer line at First and Foster streets used to be tossed high when water spilled through the sewer during heavy rainstorms. Weights were attached to the underside of the cover to keep it in place. Yesterday city sewer workers discovered why storm water pressure was so great at that intersection. From within a half block of the manhole, they removed twelve and a half tons of debris. Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton said that the debris was removed by the city's new sewer cleaner.

SEEKS UNION CONTROL OVER FIRM MINES

Action Would Affect 330,000 Workers For Second Time This Year.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers (CIO) today threatened to call out 330,000 soft coal miners for the second time this year in an effort to obtain a union shop for "captive" mines.

It was learned that Lewis has sent letters to signatories of the Appalachian agreement reached in June informing them of the union's action in calling out 43,000 miners who supply coal to steel companies and adding "that it may be necessary to exercise further shutdowns."

The strike began Monday and affects captive mines in West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Kentucky. The mines are owned by steel companies.

Mine worker officials said all means of reaching an agreement on their demand for a union shop would be "exhausted" before a second strike is called. The defense mediation board is trying to obtain an agreement for reopening the captive mines.

The UMW-CIO struck soft coal mines in April in the Appalachian fields to enforce demands for a wage increase and a union shop. After a month-long shut-down the 330,000 mine workers returned to work at the request of President Roosevelt pending negotiations before the mediation board which were concluded in June. The union won all its major demands.

Lewis' letters to the coal associations, representing the operators in the Appalachian area, it was said, were sent out Tuesday.

Lewis told a press conference earlier this week that he hoped to confine the current dispute "to the parties now affected." Future action, he said, will depend "upon the attitude and actions" of the United States Steel corporation, one of the principal companies affected by the walkout.

During three days of hearings before the mediation board on the current strike, U. S. Steel and the other large companies have shown no signs of acceding to Lewis' demands. It was recalled that U. S. Steel allowed its subsidiary, the Federal Shipbuilding and Drydock corporation, Kearny, N. J., to be taken over by the government rather than accept a mediation board proposal for a form of union shop.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

The Legends of Broadway.

(Number 16—The Angels)

The pleasant lads with the chubby bankrolls who have backed plays since days immemorial were known as patrons when Will Shakespeare was the Pulitzer prize-winner of his time. And as the centuries progressed and the kindliness and generosity and gentle character of these patrons became increasingly evident, the theatrical world discerned that they actually had wings—beautiful, greenbacked wings that crinkled when they moved.

Kilgallen

And so they became known as "angels."

* * *

Which brings us, by a pleasantly circuitous route, to the subject of today's legend, a graduate of the Ziegfeld line named "Willie". She was blond and cute and fluff and known to the boys as Willie Mae and her angel was the gargantuan beetle-browed Big Frenchy de Mange—mobster, beer runner, night club owner and patron of the fine arts. An angel not like any we know today.

* * *

The saga began at a between-show gabfest at one of the ringside tables at Texas Guinan's Argonaut club. Willie, her turn to end the lull, suddenly chirped: "You know what? I'd like to see myself the star of a big Broadway show—a talking show!" This took the assembled company by surprise, and the topic was batted back and forth like a celluloid ball, and someone asked the boss—Big Frenchy—what he thought of Willie's idea.

"Maybe," he said.

Then everybody went back to watching the floor show.

* * *

The boys did a bit of talking, and before the week was out the town knew of Willie Mae's ambition and the town was anxious to help.

* * *

Actor Alexander Carr (remember Mendel, Inc.?) finally brought in a script that the boys liked. It was called "The Wooden Soldier," and it was written by Alexander himself. Frenchy knew and liked Alexander, so the next week the angel flew up from Florida and the play was on its way out.

June 22, 1931, was the premiere date. About two minutes before curtain time, the house was jammed. All but the first seat off the aisle in the fourth row. That was filled—with a top coat. Frenchy spotted it and sent his henchman, burly Philly the Collector, to see what was up.

Philly the Collector trotted down the aisle, tapped the distinguished gentleman adjacent to the topcoat on the shoulder, and asked if the seat was to be occupied. When the gentleman said no, Philly pushed his way into it, and informed the gent that he would hold his coat throughout the show.

And that, children, was how critic George Jean Nathan happened to review a show with a young gangster as his guest!

There were 18 curtain calls for Willie Mae that night—the boys saw to that—but there was none of the boys around Percy Hammond's typewriter when he wrote his review. "And the speech of a sappy ingenue," Hammond diatribed, "is bleated sheepishly by Miss Willie Mae, a product of Mr. Ziegfeld's ballet . . . it was not so much Mr. Carr's fault as the author's." And when you recall that Mr. Carr was the author—well, you get the idea.

But it was a noble experiment, and Frenchy wasn't too unhappy. After all, it was the only way a guy like Frenchy could ever have become an angel.

The 75th annual convention was closed last night with a celebration in honor of the remaining members of the Grand Army of the Republic. Nearly 40,000 persons crowded into the Ohio State university stadium to hear a concert by the U. S. Marine band.

Although the encampment was closed officially with last night's ceremony, new Commander-in-Chief George A. Gay of Nashua, N. H., was scheduled to make a series of informal visits to Columbus schools and nearby towns today.

WORKERS GO BACK TO JOBS

Two-Day Strike, That Blacked Out Metropolis, Ends At Kansas City.

(By United Press)

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—A two-day strike of union employes at the Kansas City Power and Light company which at one time blacked out the metropolis for four hours Tuesday ended today.

The AFL International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers agreed to return to work under promise of the company to rehire, with specified exceptions, all strikers, and pending investigation of the dispute by a national defense mediation board representative.

The back-to-work vote—184 to 2—was taken shortly after midnight following a three-hour meeting which was addressed by Chester Smith, utility company president, and the firm's lawyer, Ludwick Graves.

Fred Riddell, local president of the union, gave the company his assurance that the strikers would return to their regular shifts, the first group reporting at 7 a. m. today.

Meanwhile the plants continued to operate with non-union employes and strike-breakers the company had imported.

Action of the meeting ended a second walkout called by local union leaders. The strike was believed settled earlier yesterday when the mediation board announced it was sending a representative here to investigate the union's charges that the company refused to disestablish an independent employes' organization which the national labor relations board and a circuit court had ruled was a company union.

Union members agreed to return when the mediation board move was announced, but they called all their members back out of the plants and into the meeting last night when, they charged, the company refused 17 men the right to return to work.

DOOR-TO-DOOR CANVASS TO TELL FARMERS ABOUT DEFENSE NEEDS

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO—A door-to-door canvass of every farm in the United States, asking producers to gear their 1942 crops to the defense program, will be completed by Dec. 1, a federal farm leader said today.

Wayne H. Darrow, information chief of the U. S. department of agriculture, told 400 midwest agricultural agents including delegates from Ohio the campaign to increase the nation's food output would be carried into the farm home by a questionnaire, to be filled out by 7,000,000 farm families.

County agents then will use persuasion to swing the farmer's production plans to meet defense needs.

Darrow outlined the program as follows:

Food goals for each state were drawn up by federal authorities this week. They recommend specific increases in meats and dairy products, and certain reductions in crops like wheat and cotton.

The plan sheet which each farmer is asked to fill out is similar to the previous AAA questionnaires on wheat and corn acreage, but this time covers the acreage of every crop, the breeding of all animals or fowl, and the production of milk. It represents the farmer's work plans for 1942.

County agents will attempt to show the farmer he can cooperate with the government at no loss to himself by changing, for example, some wheat land to fodder.

There are no penalties involved, patriotism and profits are the only appeals.

Since the principal lend-lease requirement is for more meat and milk, and since animals cannot be bred so quickly the agents will stress better feeding.

An extra pint of milk each day from every cow would meet the dairy needs of the defense program, Darrow said.

Two grandchildren and two great-grandchildren also survive.

Funeral services will be held at the family home, 68 Auburn street, Shelby, at 2:30 p. m. Sunday with Rev. R. T. Crowe, pastor of the Christian church of Shelby officiating. Burial will be in Mt. Hope cemetery, Shiloh.

WARNS AGAINST PAPER SHORTAGE

Photo-Lithograph Head Says 50 Per Cent To Go For Defense.

CINCINNATI—(INS)—The National Association of Photo-Lithographers was warned today that a paper shortage faces the printers of the nation. Merle S. Schaff, of Philadelphia, president, declared that although paper mills are working at 101.7 per cent of capacity, half of next year's paper supply will be needed in national defense work.

Other shortages threaten the printers in the supply of wood pulp and chlorine for bleaching, as well as such engraving and printing necessities as zinc, inks, acids, and aluminum.

MAKES CHARGE

Arnold Says Some Capital and Labor Groups Balk Defense.

YOSEMITE PARK, Cal.—(INS)—Thurman Arnold, head of the anti-trust division of the justice department, today accused some groups in labor and capital alike of retarding defense production because they fear their domination of industry will be destroyed "after the war."

Arnold, speaking before the annual meeting of the California State Bar association, declared that "anti-productive ideas held by some groups in labor and capital alike are still effective to retard our defense production."

There is no denying the fact that for ten months our defense efforts have been hampered by the attitude of powerful private groups who fear the expansion of production because it may destroy their domination of industry after the war, he said.

Freight Crashes Into Fast Train On West Coast

PASO ROBLES, Cal.—(INS)—One woman was injured seriously and scores of sleeping passengers were bruised and shaken today when a fast freight train crashed into the rear of the Southern Pacific's Lark, San Francisco-Los Angeles flyer, six miles north of Paso Robles.

Seven cars of the Lark were derailed, including the parlor-observation car and several sleepers. The engine of the freight train was derailed.

Ambulances sped to the scene from Paso Robles and San Luis Obispo and from nearby Camp Roberts, big arm reservation. Doctors and nurses from Camp Roberts treated many of the passengers for bruises and shock.

The injured woman was Mrs. Paulin Macrae, of Hayward, Cal. Extent of her injuries was not known, but she refused hospital treatment at Camp Roberts and at her own request was taken in an ambulance to Los Angeles.

BOY, 9, HURT

Loudonville Youth Injured When Car Hits Bicycle.

LOUDONVILLE — Robert Palmer, nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Palmer, was in Samaritan hospital at Ashland today with injuries sustained yesterday afternoon when he was struck by an automobile while riding a bicycle.

Hospital attendants, who reported the youth's condition as "fair" today, said he suffered a possible skull fracture.

The boy was struck, Marshal R. G. Schnittke said, by a machine driven by Miss Janice Bottomley. Riding with young Palmer was another youth, Leland Wolfe. He sustained cuts and bruises.

NEW VOLUME AT LIBRARY DEALS WITH COSSACKS

'Don Flows Home to the Sea,' Tells of Years Following Russian Revolution.

"The Don Flows Home to the Sea," Mikhail Sholokhov's new book now available at the Mansfield public library, is an epic of the Don Cossacks in the years following the Russian revolution.

The volume, which continues and finishes the story begun in "And Quiet Flows the Don," begins with the period immediately after the revolution of 1917 and carries on to the end of the civil war in 1921, when peace was finally established.

Other new books on the library shelves this week include.

Howard Fast, author of "Conceived in Liberty," tells in his new novel, THE LAST FRONTIER, the story of the West's outstanding tragedies—the exciting and amazing story of the march of a band of Cheyenne Indians from the Indian Territory in Oklahoma back to their homeland in the Black Hills in Wyoming. The trek of the 300 Indians, pursued by 10 000 trained Indian fighters for 1,000 miles, is one of the most dramatic little-known episodes in American history—and an inspiring example of Indian endurance and courage.

SWAMP WATER by Vereen Bell is a melodramatic story of a group of poor Georgia whites told with simplicity. Ben Ragan goes into the great, treacherous Okefenokee swamp in search of his hound dog. There he finds Keefer, a murderer, who has taken refuge in it. The two become friends and trapping partners Ben's secret trips make him suspected by the little backwoods community and even endangers his life when his girl friend reveals that he and Keefer are friends.

OTHER FICTION: THE VENABLES by Norris, NURSING HOME MURDER by Marsh; DIGGING FOR MRS. MILLER by Strachey.

THE MEN AROUND CHURCHILL by Rene Kraus contains significant personalities such as Anthony Eden, Ernest Bevin, Sir Archibald Wavell, Halifax, Beaverbrook, Stafford-Cripps, Kingsley Wood, Atlee, Morrison and many other surrounding Prime Minister Churchill. They appear, sharply delineated, in this excellent companion volume to the author's recent and successful "Winston Churchill."

Because Francis Hackett had never read Mein Kampf, which he calls "the Bible of dementia praecox," he went to a tropic island some 1400 miles from New York, and read it at the rate of 100 pages a day. This book, WHAT MEIN KAMPF MEANS TO AMERICA, which resulted is a combination of lengthy book review and point by point interpretation. Mr. Hackett exposes Hitler's views by pointing to the most radical Nazi idealogy and underlines their meaning with passages from the book

FRANCE ON BERLIN TIME by Thomas Kernan is the story of the carpet-baggers on the Seine It is an eye witness account of the real conquest of France that began after the Armistice. The inside picture of the way France is being kneaded into one great industrial and agricultural plantation for the Nazis, and an electrifying preview for Americans of what "peace with Hitler" means.

THE HERO IN AMERICA by Dixon Wecter is an entertaining history of American hero worship, told in terms of the men Americans have exonerated as heroes from John Smith to Franklin D Roosevelt The part played by legends as well as truth in building each hero is shown

OTHER NON-FICTION LIFE AND WAYS OF THE TWO-YEAR-OLD by Woodcock, AFRICA by Fitzgerald, CIVIL SERVICE CAREERS FOR BOYS and CIVIL SERVICE CAREERS FOR GIRLS by Carlisle AMERICA IS WORTH FIGHTING FOR by Ingersoll DEMOCRACY AND SPORT by Tunis, STRUGGLE FOR JUDICIAL SUPREMACY by Jackson, NEW TESTAMENT IN MODERN SPEECH by Weymouth, CHORAL SPEAKING FOR SPEECH IMPROVEMENT by Rasmussen I HAVE LOVED ENGLAND by Miller

M M—BOOKS FOR CHILDREN.

New books in the children's section at Mansfield Public Library include

THE FLAHERTYS OF ARAN by Agnes Lehman—Near the coast of Ireland are three islands called the Aran islands All the people who live there are poor because they must live on what they can earn from fishing The Flahertys were a happy family in spite of being poor Sheila and Pat were always looking for buried treasure which would give them enough money to pay a doctor to help Katie their little lame sister, to walk again. Sheila believed in fairies' help but Pat thought that was all foolishness and he looked himself

PEGEEN by Hilda Van Stockmen—Pegeen was a little Irish girl who was an orphan and when her grandmother died no one wanted to keep her She wrote to her only little friend and his mother invited her to come to live with them for a while That is how it happened that Pegeen went to live in THE COTTAGE AT BANTRY BAY which has already had its story told in a book. Frances mother was good to her and made Pegeen feel that "it must be wonderful to have a mother." No one else understood the pranks she played and the things she did wrong.

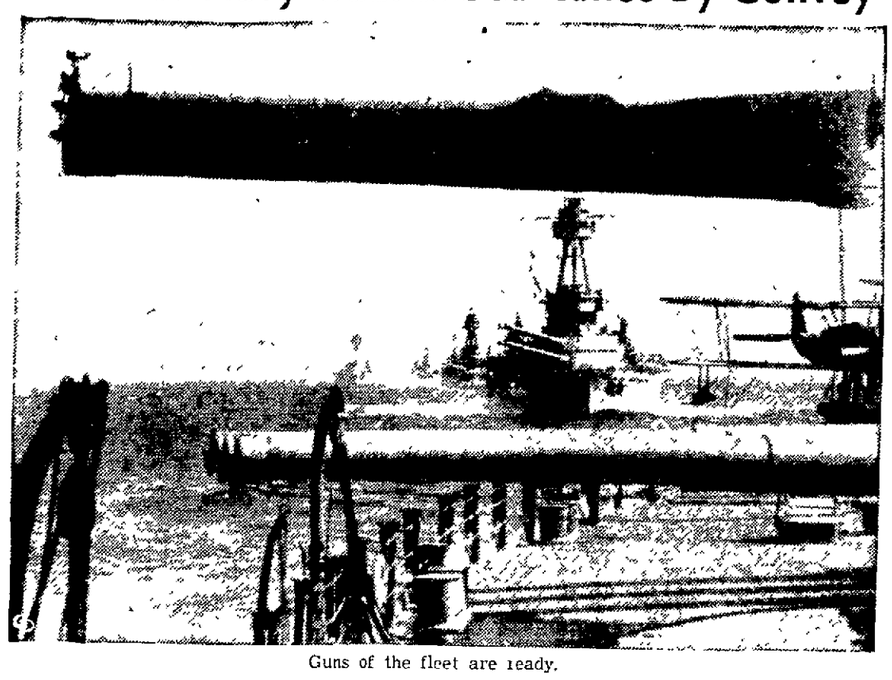
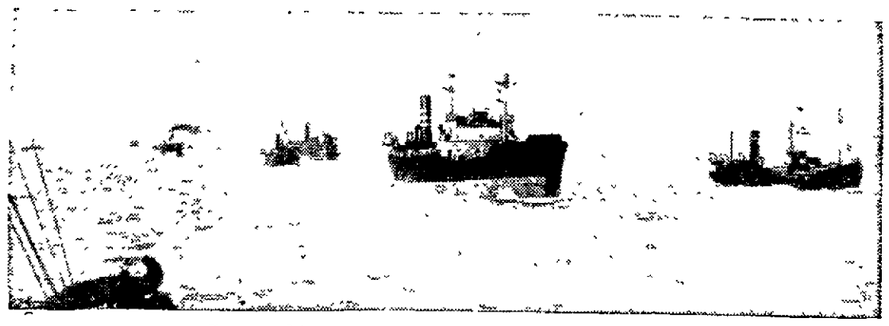
As U. S. Navy Guards Sea Lanes By Convoy



Guns of the fleet are ready.



Convoys like this come under American protection.

Decks of the United States fleet have been cleared for action following President Roosevelt's "shoot on sight" order of last week and Secretary of Navy Frank Knox's disclosure that naval units are now engaged in convoy duty over a 2 000-mile stretch of the Atlantic between the U. S. and Iceland Shown on the map at left are the vital routes by which supplies are carried to the Near East and to Iceland where British ships pick up the convoying Shown also are the combat zones proclaimed by Germany and the U S-established neutrality zones which may be soon wiped out as Washington looks forward to repeal of the neutrality act.

OUR FARM HOMES GETTING WARMER

Furnaces in Rural Houses Giving Way To New Heating Plants.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—The day of furnace-equipped basements for rural homes is giving way to more efficient storage and heating plants, says George R. Shier, agricultural engineering specialist at Ohio State university.

Put the furnace in a utility room at the rear of the house, Shier suggests Blower systems will deliver the proper amount of heat throughout the dwelling.

Utility room furnaces eliminate the need for basements entirely, says Shier, and without them farmers won't be bothered with the problem of keeping them dry

Shier expressed the belief that furnaces because of their heat probably have ruined more good basement storage space for vegetables and fruit than most farmers realize.

BLACK BOOM + + + + + +

By Paul David Preston

(Copyright, 1941)

CHAPTER V

At the Mayfield gate Lillian was completely flustered She said nothing to the white boys; she just fled inside her home. Old Jason turned to them still defiantly armed with dignity, but —Dallas was holding out a bright $5 bill.

"Thank you, Jason," Dallas said. "This is for good will. Promise me you will always look after Miss Lillian's welfare."

Then old Jason's severity cracked for the first time.

"Lawdy, lawdy! I told Miss Millie you wasn't no danguh, suh' I told her so' You looked like quality from the fust! It was just another young gentlemun come out 'bout midnight and got Miss Millie all stewed up."

"So?" Dallas was interested. "Who, Jason?"

"Mr. Martin Deale, suh. He's powerful hot-headed anyhow."

Lillian Mayfield awoke at 10 a. m. still feeling "put out" with her mother for sending Jason last evening.

"Mother, I'm not a child!" she kept saying, at breakfast.

"I know, darling. I know But you are a gentlewoman, and unmarried. And Dr. Tower was a stranger."

"Well my goodness, he wasn't a—a—"

"Martin said that he was quite officious"

"Oh, Martin!" Lillian said that disdainfully. "As a matter of fact, Mother, Martin acted like a boor himself. Dal had done nothing to justify—"

"Dal?"

"Dallas. Dr Tower."

"Isn't it short acquaintance to act so familiar with him, Lillian? Perhaps Martin had more reasons to interfere than you admit."

"Oh, mother!"

There is no arguing with a mother like that, Lillian realized, sulkily. She ate her breakfast and listened to the remainder of the lecture without comment. Presently, she knew, mother would have it all out of her system, and be a happier, loveher somebody therefor. She asked Jason to turn on the radio, and was instantly captured by a news announcer from Houston.

". . . and probably will continue to burn for hours and perhaps days," he was saying "Technical engineers who flew up before dawn from Houston say that the gusher is destroying thousands of dollars worth of oil each hour, but that it is also advertising a new field of incalculable underground wealth Meanwhile a veritable boom had burst on Rangeville, telephone reports indicate. Before 9 o'clock this morning its streets were crowded with spectators. Wild buying and selling of leases was in progress. The county clerk's office was literally swamped with demands for its services. Prices of meals had jumped from 25 cents to $1 even at breakfast this first day, but Mayor Scott was taking steps to halt only unfair profiteering.

"Bulletin· A message just come in from Rangeville says that Mayor Scott has called a mass meeting of his citizens for 2 p m. in the public square, to try to stem the wild panic which seems to have engulfed the once placid little town! It is a panic of pleasure, says the mayor, but it can also go rapidly beyond control. Rangeville has only two small hotels and demands for housing space this very night is bound to be drastic. Already, says Mayor Scott, the visible population of the town had more than quadrupled and every road is jammed with more new arrivals who are not equipped even to camp out. The hysteria must be dealt with in some manner, hence the mass meeting at 2 is called to—"

"My goodness'" Mrs. Mayfield frowned at her radio.

"Have you been downtown, mother?" Lillian asked.

"Certainly not! But the jam is evident even on North Marshall street here, and I was telephoning with Frankie Haltom — it's disgraceful!"

They heard more details over their radio before the news man switched to war talk. Obviously Rangeville's oil well had major economic importance in Texas. Presently an automobile sound truck came down the street and its loud speakers were also calling all citizens to public square for a mass meeting at 2 p. m. Mrs. Mayfield heard that with added consternation. She walked across her broad lawn and conferred in person with Mrs. Frankie Haltom, who was similarly confused and distressed Together they resolved to have no part of the mass meeting or the unseemly oil excitement.

At 11 o'clock Thad Monroe came to the Mayfields bubbling with enthusiasms about oil. "They say it'll make everybody a millionaire!" he announced, gaily. "You'll have to start calling me mister, Lil."

"Hush," said Lillian, smiling. "And who's that parking?"

That turned. "Martin Deale, isn't it? And—yep, with M. J. Parker. Oh hmm!" Thad sighed elaborately. "I knew it. I never came out here yet, for a bit of private courting, that half the town's males didn't horn in"

"Oh, so you came courting?" Lillian asked, archly.

"Certainly. What else?"

"Who, then? Me?"

He eyed her in mock seriousness. Lillian's mother and her sister Dorothy had come to the front porch now, and Thad took his cue from them.

"Did I say so? Matter of fact, Baby Doll is mighty pretty, mighty pretty! And Miss Millie herself is a most charming widow!" He bowed in courtly manner.

They all laughed at him, and with him. Thad was welcome anywhere and never misunderstood.

"What about this, uh, new heart throb, Lil?"

"Hmmm?"

"Don't hedge. You know what I'm talking about."

Baby Doll, alias Dorothy, put in then. "He's in the dog house. With mother."

"Yeah? Hear hear! Hi, you mugs!" He turned to greet the other boys now. There was five minutes of conversation about the oil excitement, but Thad switched back to the personal matters as soon as he could. He was half smiling, impishly.

"No no, I did not say that I dislike Dr. Tower," Mrs. Mayfield went at length to explain. "I merely said that Lillian must be loyal first to her hometown friends Martin here was naturally concerned for her safety and —goodness, isn't that be now? Isn't that Dr. Tower again?"

"It is!" Thad nodded, triumphantly. "He told me he'd be out soon. I rushed to get ahead of him. Lillian, may I have a date every evening for the next six months? Hurry!"

"Hush!" Lillian ordered, again.

"Ho humm, another man in the clan. Another satellite for the three Mayfield girls. Another porch chair filled. You ought to marry off your daughters, Miss Millie, so you could rest and—"

His banter went on until Dal Tower came up.

Dal spoke with absolute courtesy and cordiality. Especially did he smile at Martin Deale and speak a greeting—and ignore the fact that Martin merely moistened his lips and said nothing

"Please come in," Mrs Mayfield invited. "Or do you prefer it here? It is so nice on this porch in mornings the crepe myrtle is inviting, and the other flowers are—"

"Your home is lovely indeed, Mrs Mayfield." Dal declared. "As lovely as its ladies."

"Hear hear!" Thad grinned. "The boy's learning."

"Stop it., Thad!" Lillian chastened him.

"Oh don't mind me, Doc. I'm a Californian myself. That makes me a Yankee same as you. You have to pour a lot of oil to get along with the Mayfield girls. I'm just telling you as man to man"

Martin Deale spoke then. "Dr. Tower needs no instruction."

It was plainly sarcastic. The group turned to Martin. Dallas chose to laugh gaily.

"And it isn't funny," Martin put in. Obviously he was touchy.

Dallas sobered a bit, then directed his attention more at Marton. "No. I know what you mean, Deale. About last evening —I apologize for any unpleasantness. I—well the oil excitement had us all upset, I suspect, and—"

"You owe no one an agology, Dallas!" Lillian said that, lifting her head rather emphatically. "You did nothing wrong in the least. In fact, if you hadn't taken charge when those men were burned, and—"

"But he subjected you to all manner of danger!" Martin flashed.

"Phooey!" Thad tried to laugh it off, and succeeded. He kept on talking, domunating them and quite squelching what might have been a teal unpleasantness. Dallas matched the mood deliberately easing the strain on all of them and switching the talk to the oil well and the mass meeting scheduled for 2 p m. Milicent Mayfield appreciated that in him. Again in his presence she was succumbing to the young doctor's charm. She liked his straightforward manner, his assurance. It was evident to all of them that Dal Tower held a natural aggressiveness and it should have been plain to all that this was not arrogance or conceit. Thad Monroe suddenly phrased it

"You know, Tower, I'm going to like you."

"Say!" Dallas beamed "You—why you—"

"Yep. You'll fit in here In this town, I mean. As soon as people have a chance to size you up. I mean, especially now, since there's a boom striking. Old Doc Watkins investigated you, of course. I believe he picked a worthy successor"

"That's gracious of you, Thad," Mrs. Mayfield asserted, happily.

"It is, and no joking." Dal added. "I'll have to like you back old man. Impossible not to like a person who likes you!"

Thad's eyes twinkled again, then.

"But my friendship is strictly impersonal." said he. I expect to hate you, personally. Account of Lillion. I was here first. Four years I've spent on this porch already. Lillian is—"

"Hold it!" Dal saw his chance. He remembered his initiation into this crowd last evening! He spoke now with mock severity "Hold it, Monroe! If it's got to be hatred between us, hatred it is! I have to warn you, suh, that during the long hours last evening when Miss Lillian was out with me, we became engaged!"

Lillian gasped. She knew he was joking, but—the others didn't. At least not her mother and sister. And how could the other boys be sure?

* * *

For no good reason (save an intuitive one) they turned to Martin Deale. All but Dallas who had quite forgotten him for the moment. And—Martin responded as they expected.

"That's a stupid lie, Tower!" he snapped, hotly "An insult!"

Dallas smiled quickly, showing his surprise.

"It's no more than you three claimed last night!" he protested. "Can't you take a joke as well as—?"

"That was different, you fool!"

"Who's being a fool, you or I?" Anger flashed on Dal, too, now.

Martin didn't answer that. He just stepped quickly forward and swung his fist.

The blow struck Dallas Tower squarely on the cheek.

APPEALS COURT STUDIES CASES

Three Actions Taken Under Advisement; Damage Suit Dismissed.

The fifth district appeals court today had three of four cases heard in Mansfield Wednesday under advisement. The other case was dismissed.

The appeal of R. B. Kenton, plaintiff in a damage action against Miller's Pure Test Milk company, was dismissed by the appeals court. Kenton sought damages following a traffic accident involving the defendant's truck.

Taken under advisement were cases involving William Lindsay, Bellville, who appealed a 120-day workhouse sentence imposed in probate court on a conviction for contributing to the delinquency of a minor; a damage action brought by Hilda A. Coleman against the New York Central Railroad company and another brought by Vera Grinnell against Carl Earhart.

The court delayed until Oct. 2 its consideration of a report in a case involving the Shelby Mutual Plate Glass and Casualty company which seeks to escape liability in damage actions resulting from a fatal traffic mishap in Mansfield in 1938 Atty. William F. Black, Mansfield, as referee for the court, heard evidence in the case several weeks ago.

WILL CELEBRATE ROSH HA-SHONO

B'Nai Jacob Congregation to Begin New Year Observance at Sunset Sunday.

With the blowing of the Shofor, or ram's horn, the Jewish New Year will be officially welcomed Monday, ushering in a season of three important holidays.

Rosh Ha-Shono, or the Jewish New Year, marks the beginning of the year 5702 in the Jewish calendar. In accordance with tradition, services of B'Nai Jacob congregation will be conducted at sunset Sunday (7 p. m.) by Rabbi D. Rub on the second floor Eagle's hall.

The other two holidays are Yom Kippur or the Day of Atonement, Oct. 1, and the festival of Sukos or the feast of tabernacle, Oct. 6.

Rosh Ha-Shono was originally an agricultural festival, but as the agricultural background disappeared from Jewish life, it became a holiday commemorating the beginning of creation until today the spirit of self-examination and a reconciliation toward a spiritual recreation is stressed in its observance.

Other services commemorating this festival will be held Monday at 8 a. m. and 6 p. m., and on Tuesday at 8 a. m.

MR. OTIS BRASILL
Canton Resident

Mr. Otis Brasill of 1224 Ardmore S.W., praises the grand work Vendol accomplished as follows: "Before I found Vendol, I was miserable due to constipation, and when this condition was bad I had terrible symptoms of acid indigestion, gas formed in my stomach causing painful 'heartburn', acid risings, and aggravating shortness of breath. My stomach felt tight and bloated, and many things I wanted to eat disagreed with me due to the constipation.

"I also noticed that when constipated I'd have sore, aching muscles in my arms, shoulders, and across my back.

"I have taken many things, but nothing did much good till I found Vendol, and it brought the finest, most satisfactory, temporary relief from constipation. When I get this relief I never have a sign of acid indigestion, sour stomach, gas, bloatings, headaches, or tired, aching muscles. Vendol helped me, and I'm glad to recommend it to others suffering like I used to."

Tygers Meet Akron West In Football Opener Tonight

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

. Gridomania grips Mansfield today as her high school Tygers prepare to pry off the football lid with an expected victory tonight at Stadium field over Akron's city champion West high eleven.

Since this time a year ago when a green bunch of budding athletes took over the sports burden at Mansfield's highest institution of learning, the song of nearly all the high school coaches has been: "Wait until next year."

* * *

To some that song may have sounded like an alibi for shortcomings of Mansfield teams last year. To a great many fans it served as a tremendous buildup for what they might expect this year.

Well, they can expect better things this year. Practically every close follower of Mansfield high school athletics who watched the Tygers in practice scrimmage last spring with Toledo Waite, Coshocton and the alumni, and who has seen them practice this fall agrees on that point.

I only hope the frenzied fans will remember that these Tygers are still only boys of 15, 16 and 17; that the world doesn't stand or fall on their football efforts; and that the future of democracy will not depend on whether they win or lose a ball game.

I've been stopped time and again in the last few days by friends, acquaintances, and even strangers, with the question: "Just how does this team look to you."

It looks good. If it had more backfield speed it would look great. It gives every indication of being the kind of team that will play good, hard football all through the season. The greenness of a year ago has worn off, the team has been smoothed up, the players go about their position assignments with workmanlike precision.

I don't look for a sensational brand of football as a regular thing from the Tyger team of '41. Against weaker or slower teams, Tyger backs may get away for long touchdown runs. Against teams of their own caliber they don't appear to have the speed for those runs without a break or unusual trick play.

The blocking and play precision of this veteran team should make gains of three to 10 or 20 yards a rather common occurrence, however, and that should be enough to win most of their games.

* * *

To expect this team to win all its games would be anticipating something of a gridiron miracle. Massillon and Canton McKinley are still on the schedule, and there are other tough teams to be reckoned with. But it's a team that should look good in victory or defeat. And I recall that the best game the Tygers played last season was in a 38-0 defeat by Massillon.

* * *

This is merely my own opinion. Hundreds of fans will gather at Stadium field tonight to form their own opinion. And I won't be mad if every one of them gets a different opinion than mine.

As Mr. Shakespeare was wont to say in football seasons long gone:

"What boots it?"

B-Leaguers Hold Banquet

"Pop" Davis Elected Golf Loop President.

News-Journal B league golfers took their stance at the banquet table at Possum Run last night, carefully addressed their objective, took a slow back stroke and swung into action. And there wasn't a dubbed shot or a missed putt in the lot.

* * *

They were winding up another successful season in which the Elks won the championship with 47 points against 44 for the second place Bissman team.

* * *

No league golfer went below the 40 average limit for the league, but four came close to the mark which would have made them ineligible for further competition. Wayne Anthony posted the lowest average of 40 1-4 strokes. Adam Brandt had 40 3-13, V. H. Oberlander 40 3-7 and Alec "Pop" Davis southpawed his way to a 40 9-13 mark.

"Pop," elected president of the league for next year, offered to teach any and all of the league members how to putt while standing on the wrong side of the ball.

Dick Treisch was elected secretary and Russ McCullough was again named treasurer of the league.

* * *

Four players tied for low score during the season. They were Anthony, Harry Fay, Davis and Brandt with rounds of 37. Maurice Byrnes and Oberlander tied for next low score of 38.

Paul Brown Gives Data

Coach Writes Piece Telling How Ohio State Looks.

By PAUL BROWN

Ohio State Football Coach.

(Written for United Press)

COLUMBUS — Naturally this first year at Ohio State will be a new experience for me, but like any other coach starting his first season at a new school, I am looking forward to it with great hope and enthusiasm.

I don't have any idea what kind of a team we will have this year, because as yet I don't know the caliber of football played in the Western conference. But the fans here tell us that we won't be any too good this fall.

Although we don't have too much veteran material to work with, we have some promising sophomores who may come along to help us out. We have only 13 lettermen back and lack an experienced man at center.

* * *

Of the 15 lettermen who were graduated last June, eight were regulars so we will have a comparatively new team this fall.

We have Charley Anderson back at end and two other letter-winning ends in Pete Hershberger and Sam Fox. Two fine sophomores who will help us are Bob Shaw, 221 pounds and six feet three, and Leon Schoenbaum, a 190-pounder.

* * *

We have two lettermen at guard but may have to start a sophomore at one of these positions. We are pretty well set at tackle with Capt. Jack Stephenson, Jim Daniell and Thornton Dixon, all lettermen.

Center is a tossup between Junior Bill Vickroy and Sophomores Earl Martin and Jack Rosen.

The only regular backfield man from last year is Tom Kinkade, senior right halfback. Jack Graf and Johnny Hallabrin, two seniors, probably will handle fullback.

LIGHTNIN' JONES

These four veteran backs will be in the Mansfield high starting lineup tonight when the Tygers open their football season at Stadium field against Akron West, Coach Paul Snyder announced today.

Brooklyn Blows A Gasket But Retains One Game Lead

By JUDSON BAILEY

(By Associated Press)

IF THE Brooklyn Dodgers don't win the National league baseball championship maybe they will go after Joe Louis' heavyweight boxing crown.

They took their minds off baseball long enough yesterday to lose a critical game to the Pittsburgh Pirates, 6-5, and they also lost their preliminary venture into the heavyweight class to Umpire George Magerkurth, a man mountain weighing about 225 pounds and 6 feet 4 inches tall.

* * *

But the fates which protect little children—and the Dodgers saw them through their hours of travail once again by bringing the Boston Braves a 4-1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. This kept Brooklyn in front by one game with the standings:

* * *

	Won	Lost	Games To Play
Brooklyn	93	52	9
St. Louis	91	52	10

The rumpus at Pittsburgh was one of those wild sideshows for which the delirious Dodgers have become famous.

The game was tense all the way, with the Pirates hopping on Fred Fitzsimmons, their old Nemesis, for four runs in the fourth, and Johnny Lanning holding the Dodgers to two singles through seven scoreless innings.

There was a rumbling of trouble in the seventh when Larry French, who had relieved Fitz, hit Frank Gustine with a pitch and Gustine threw his bat at the pitcher. But the volcano really erupted in the eighth.

* * *

The Dodgers dug up five runs in a breath-taking rally after two were out, and then set out to hold their 5-4 lead.

* * *

Luke (Hot Potato) Hamlin went to the mound and gave a single to the first batter, Vince DiMaggio, who reached second as Joe Medwick fumbled. Big, chubby Hugh Casey was rushed in and got the next two men out, with DiMaggio moving to third. He also got two strikes on Al Lopez. Then he balked and Umpire Magerkurth waved DiMaggio home with the tying run. There was a mass protest by the Dodgers which lasted for five minutes, then subsided.

* * *

Casey was infuriated, however, and threw the next three balls over the heads of Magerkurth, Lopez and his own catcher, Mickey Owen. Magerkurth went to the mound and told him, "You can't make a travesty of this ball game."

* * *

Durocher rushed between the two, shoved Casey out of the way and stormed at Magerkurth in language that the umpire later modestly termed "bitter." Finally Magerkurth ordered the manager out of the game. Casey walked Lopez, Alf Anderson tripled and a potential Brooklyn victory flew through the pearly gates.

The feud with Magerkurth continued under the stands after the game until tough little Bill Stewart broke up the wrangling. Durocher broke up some chairs and odds and ends after he got to the dressing room, too, but this didn't do the Dodgers any good.

What did do them some good was Boston's beating the Cards.

In yesterday's other games, the Cincinnati Reds swept their second straight doubleheader from the Phillies, 5-0 and 9-2. The Cubs took fifth place away from the New York Giants by beating them, 7-1.

* * *

Bob Feller acquired his 24th victory with an eight-hit pitching job that led Cleveland to a 6-1 triumph over the Boston Red Sox. The Washington Senators repulsed the St. Louis Browns, 9-8.

Association Finals Start

COLUMBUS —(AP)— The final round of the American Association Governor's Cup series gets under way at last here tonight, with the Louisville Colonel's meeting the Champion Columbus Red Birds.

It took the second-place Colonels six games, spread out over a period of six days, to knock the Minneapolis Millers out of the running and advance to the finals. They accomplished the chore at Minneapolis yesterday, 7 to 1, behind the smooth five-hit pitching of Oscar Judd.

Manager Burt Shotton of the Red Birds picked Johnny Grodzicki, top-ranking moundsman in the association, to hurl the first game of the four-out-of-seven series. Les Fleming, who came from Boston late in the season, probably will be on the hill for the Colonels.

The winner of the final playoff will meet the victor of the Newark-Montreal series in the International league for the "Little World Series" title.

Mansfield Veterans Favored to Win Game

Coach Snyder Reduces Weight of Players With Clean Equipment.

EVERYTHING'S all set for the opening of the high school football season tonight at Stadium field when Mansfield's Tygers tackle Akron's city champion West high eleven.

No special opening day ceremonies are planned, but the Mansfield high school band will be there to parade and play before the game and between halves, and what is most important the Tygers and the Cowboys will be there to play between the band concerts.

Both teams will be seeing action for the first time this season since Ohio High School Athletic association rules barred play before Sept. 19.

But pre-game dope gives the Tygers a decided advantage, since the Mansfield team is composed almost entirely of veterans who performed in last year's 14-13 victory over West, while the Akron club has only one regular left from last year's team.

* * *

The official lineup for the Tygers and the probable lineup of the visitors follows:

Mansfield	Pos.	West
Romano	l.e.	Mann
Pecht	l.t.	Black
Timmons	l.g.	McComb
Dietzel	c.	Sarvis
Smith	r.g.	Catalano
Arlin	r.t.	McDermott
Winbigler	r.e.	Daniels
Doolittle	q.b.	Pappas
Condon	l.h.	Zuendell
Jones	r.h.	Hollander
Brandt	f.b.	Flint

Officials will be: Krieger of Ohio U., referee, Wagner of Oberlin, present basketball coach at Ohio Wesleyan, umpire, Rang of Akron, umpire. Krieger worked last year's Mansfield-Akron West game.

* * *

Always on the hunt for something new and something better in football, Coach Paul Snyder comes up this season with an idea which he thinks will subtract 8 to 10 pounds from each Tyger's equipment, and add that much to their speed.

Mansfield players will be issued new, clean shoulder and hip pads before each game, Snyder announced today. He explained that during the week's practice, pads are apt to soak up from 8 to 10 pounds in sweat. In previous seasons the Tygers have worn the same set of pads for practice and games throughout the season, and before the season was very old they have been lugging a lot of excess weight around.

Bob "Windy" Winbigler will do the Tygers' punting tonight, and this shift of the veteran end into the backfield may open the way for a few trick plays. "Windy" is a good passer, and with Lightnin' Jones taking his place at end he'll have a good, fast pass receiver up in front to take his tosses. Opponents won't know, on third down, whether Winbigler is going to pass or punt.

Tonight's game starts at 8 o'clock. A corps of ushers, headed by principals and teachers of Mansfield schools, will be on hand to show holders of season tickets to their reserved seats, and books of season tickets will be available for the last time at the gates.

Ohio Football Starts Moving

Youngstown Ties Geneva As Season Begins.

(By Associated Press)

Ohio's new football season, ushered in last night by a surprising scoreless tie at Youngstown, introduces a gridiron innovation tonight.

Xavier university of Cincinnati is spotting Georgetown (Ky.) college a touchdown handicap just to even things up a bit and give the spectators something different. The idea was hatched by Xavier Coach Clem Crowe, and it's all right with Georgetown.

* * *

Youngstown college failed to uncover its expected scoring punch and played Geneva (Pa.) college to a 0-0 deadlock. Jim Heber and Matzie Perantoni sparked one drive to the Geneva three-yard line, but bogged down. The Penguins made nine first downs to Geneva's four.

* * *

Besides the Georgetown-Xavier clash, tonight brings first action for three other Ohio teams.

* * *

Two of them meet at Alliance when Coach Dutch Hollier of Hiram college sends a 23-man squad to face Mount Union.

Dayton university entertains Hillsdale (Mich.) college in the evening's third contest.

Set 4 New Trot Records

Grand Circuit Races Close At Delaware Today.

By FRITZ HOWELL

DELAWARE—(AP)—Bill Gallon, 1941 Hambletonian winner, goes today as the "Roaring Grand" circuit winds up its four-day meeting here, but anything that happens will be an anti-climax.

With more than 5,000 paying customers in the stands yesterday, the horses and horsemen put on one of the year's most sensational shows.

* * *

Four new world records were written into the books; a two-year-old purchased a year ago for $600 ran its winnings over the $19,000 mark for the season while remaining unbeaten; veteran Vic Fleming of Syracuse figured in his second spill of the campaign; Spencer Scott, 1940 Hambletonian winner, trotted the two fastest heats ever put together by a stallion; and Peter Astra, 1939 victor in the Hambletonian, was retired from racing.

The experts have it that Bill Gallon, despite his win in the big Goshen, N. Y., classic, will be beaten in today's start.

Court Jester, purchased last fall by Drivers Fred Egan and Rupert Parker of Aiken, S. C., shared the $2,500 two-year-old pace yesterday to run his year's winnings to $19,200—the greatest amount ever won by a two-year-old pacer. In winning the $2,500 event, Court Jester paced the heats in 2:07¼ and 2:07, the fastest pair ever put together by a two-year-old side-wheeler and replacing the 2:09¼ and 2:06½ marks set this year by Yellow Blossom.

Spencer Scott's name went into the record books twice, his 202½ time for the first heat in the $5,000 Olentangy trot being the fastest ever compiled over a half-mile oval by a stallion, and then he took the second heat in 2:04¼ to erase the old "two fastest heats" mark of 2:04¼ and 2:05¾ set 11 years ago by Hollywood Pat.

Bostonian set the other record, for four heats, winning the last two in 2:04½ and 2:06. Earl's Moody Guy took the first in 2:04, and Duncan the second in 2:06, for a total of 8 minutes 22 seconds. Emma Signal set the old mark of 8:23¼ in 1939.

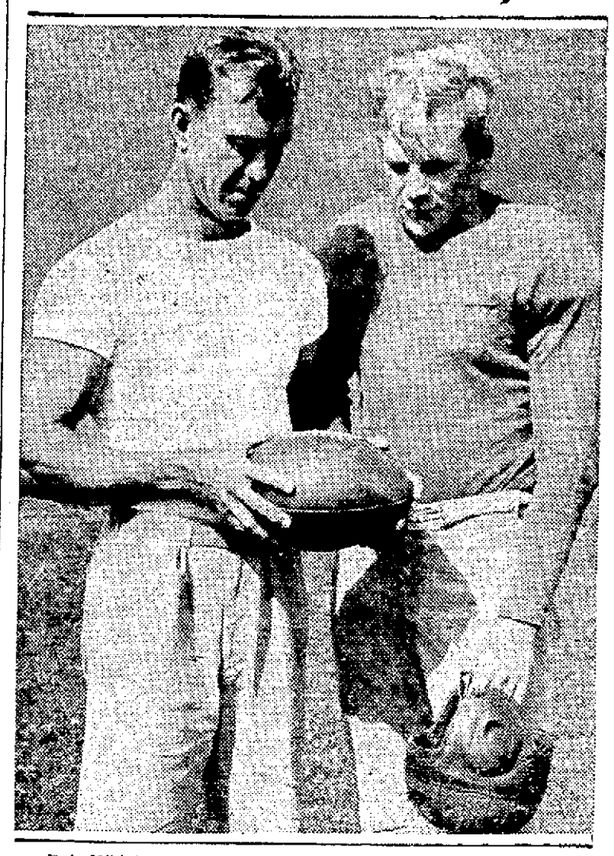
Plymouth, Willard Decide Champion

The Plymouth Locomotives and the Willard Veterans of Foreign Wars baseball club will decide the Huron county baseball crown holder Sunday at 2:30 p. m. in Willard's new stadium.

Both teams have copped one game of their three game series and, claiming to have two Cleveland Indian scouts watching them, they w.l run off the rubber game Sunday.

Plymouth downed Willard 7 to 1 in their first game and Willard edged the Plymouths 4 and 3 in the second. Battery for Plymouth will be Owens and Robertson; for Willard Buss and Boyle.

Whittaker Tackles B. G. Job



Bob Whittaker (left), new football coach at Bowling Green State university, is shown giving some pointers to Captain Ed Weilner, senior halfback from River Rouge, Mich., and the lightest and fastest man on the Falcon squad. Whittaker is making his debut in college coaching after 11 years at Sandusky high school, where five of his teams were undefeated. The husky Bowling Green outfit will entertain Wooster in the opening game Sept. 27. Weilner, who weighs 148 pounds, won six events last spring in a dual track meet with Findlay college.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK — (The Special News Service)—As soon as that ruckus in Pittsburgh yesterday calmed down a bit, Secretary John McDonald of the Dodgers phoned a report to Boss Larry MacPhail. . . . At this end of the line, Larry was overheard demanding: "You called long distance to tell me that Magerkurth is a blanked thusandso? I knew that all the time." . . . The Dodgers just couldn't wait to get back to the eastern half of the league. . . . They took a special train to Philadelphia to spend an off day. . . . Middle western papers report that Bill McKechnie gave a demonstration of his ability as a chef the other day and cooked a dozen squirrels. Could that be a backhanded slap at the way Bill's Reds treated Our Bums?

TODAY'S GUEST STAR.

Jack Singer, New York Journal-American: "Bill Terry notified the press that Burgess Whitehead, who is suffering from a torn ligament in his shoulder, would remain with the Giants in the capacity of a pinch runner. Terry apparently is working on the mistaken theory that the Giants are going to get a runner on base."

ODDS, AND SOME ENDS.

Note for the future book: Bernie Bierman's son is playing some swell prep school football and likely will be seen in a Gopher uniform before very many seasons. . . . And Charlie Bachman, jr., eldest son of the Michigan State coach, is a six-foot-three end on the East Lansing high school team. . . . Correction: Harry Todd's brother Tom says our report that Harry was ready to quit competitive golf was all wrong. . . . Harry and Tom will be in business together, all right, but Harry will get time off to make all the major tournaments. . . . Lou Nova has received an invitation from Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson and Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox to take part in a special broadcast for service men next Monday.

SHORT SHORT STORY.

When Ted Williams was at the dinner in honor of Uncle Jim O'Leary at Boston the other night, he heard the 80-year-old baseball writer say to Will Harridge, "Hello, Bill." Williams laughed and remarked: "I guess you have to reach your 80th birthday before you can say 'Hello Bill' to the president of the American league."

Merchants Give Tourney Prizes

Thirteen isn't an unlucky number for Pete Linster. Today he reported that that many Mansfield merchants have agreed to donate prizes for the second annual Richland county golf tournament Sunday, Sept. 28 at Westbrook Country club.

Pete has been collecting prizes for the tourney, and he expects to use the 13 as a stepping stone toward a greater prize list.

* * *

Half of the entry fee of $3 for the tourney also will be added to the prize list, while the other half will cover green fees for the 36-hole tourney.

Union Diamondmen Slip By Lucas, 4-3

Union high school's baseball team went into an extra inning to wind up a late inning rally and best Lucas high 4 to 3 last night on the Union field.

* * *

The victory marked Union's second venture into the fall baseball world this season. Last week they dropped a 2 to 1 decision to Nova high.

* * *

Plans for a fall county baseball league were discussed before school started in the hopes of starting a schedule for teams without football teams. Discussion on the project was however dropped until next spring when the spring baseball season opens.

WILSON IN AT GUARD

CHAMPAIGN, Ill.—(ANS)—Bob Wilson, a sophomore, worked out at guard with Illinois' first string squad today as a result of his good showing in a varsity-freshman scrimmage yesterday. The frosh, using Minnesota plays, scored one touchdown on the senior team but then were stopped cold.

AN IMPORTANT MESSAGE FROM DU PONT

IN THE INTEREST OF NATIONAL DEFENSE, conserve anti-freeze so there will be enough to go around . . . Don't buy or use more than you need . . . Before you put in anti-freeze, have your car radiator cleaned to remove the rust, scale and dirt that cause poor circulation and overheating . . . Have your dealer tighten up all hose connections, cylinder bolts, and water pump packing. This will prevent leakage of anti-freeze . . . Also see that the fan and belt are working properly to provide full cooling efficiency . . . Then put in a dependable anti-freeze, following the directions on the can.

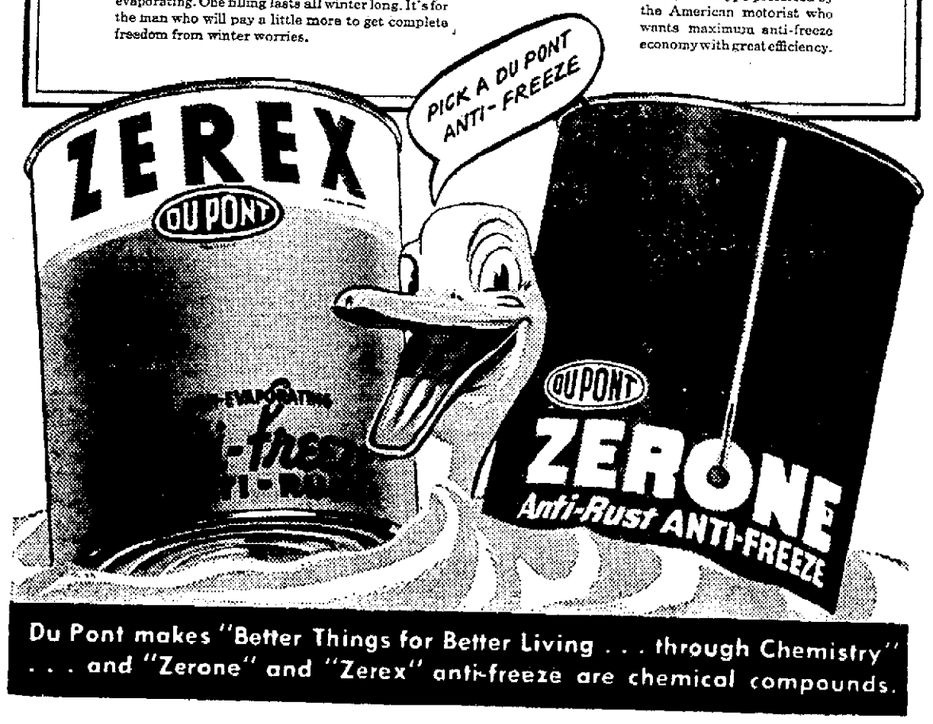
Du Pont tells how to choose the right anti-freeze for your car:

$2.65 A GAL. WON'T BOIL OUT! ONE FILLING LASTS ALL WINTER LONG

▶ Du Pont "Zerex" is an outstanding premium anti-freeze. $2.65 a gallon. It won't boil out . . . it's non-evaporating. One filling lasts all winter long. It's for the man who will pay a little more to get complete freedom from winter worries.

$1.00 A GAL. ECONOMICAL . . . ! REQUIRES ONLY AN OCCASIONAL CHECK-UP

▶ Du Pont "Zerone" is America's largest-selling anti-freeze. $1.00 a gallon. It's the type preferred by the American motorist who wants maximum anti-freeze economy with great efficiency.



Du Pont makes "Better Things for Better Living . . . through Chemistry" . . . and "Zerone" and "Zerex" anti-freeze are chemical compounds.

SELLING KEEPS STOCK LEADERS ON DOWNGRADE

Commercial Surveys Reveal Feverish Spending Now Flattens Out.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Light selling today kept most stock market leaders slightly on the downgrade.

Inclined to slip in early trades were Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, and General Electric

Up occasionally were Woolworth and American Telephone.

Market followers noted commercial surveys which indicated the feverish public spending of past weeks was flattening out in most sections of the country.

Dun and Bradstreet said retailers inclined to describe this week's merchandising lull as a "return to normal after the spectacular increases of August."

The federal reserve board summary also confirmed the slackening of demand for goods. It placed the country's department store distribution for the week ended Sept. 13 at 8 per cent over the comparable week last year. The upturn in the preceding week was 12 per cent.

UNREST SWEEPS AXIS TERRITORY

Two More Communists Executed In Paris as Total Deaths Mount to 115.

ened by murderers," said Col. Gen. Henrich Von Stulpnaegel, the German commander of the Occupation forces, as the latest restrictive measure, the curfew, was announced.

Already 15 Frenchmen have died by the firing squad in retaliation for attacks on German soldiers. Ten of them were shot this week.

Bombings and gunfire marked the continued resistance of Serbs in the mountain hamlets of Yugoslavia.

An explosion in the Zagreb, Croatia central telephone exchange last Sunday wounded at least 12 German soldiers. In another section of that city Croats were attacked by four gunmen. The four were reported captured, and one of them, still clutching a hand grenade, was shot dead and left lying in the street as a warning.

At Sarajevo 61 Serbs were reported executed for such offenses as firing on military patrols.

The Sarajevo-Brod railway was blown up by saboteurs, and two bombs tossed at a bus wounded two German soldiers.

Trouble in France was not confined to the occupied zone. Anti-Communist courts in the Vichy-controlled area continued to grind out prison sentences, and at Marseilles one Frenchman was sentenced to death for treason. In Algiers, French Africa, two others were condemned to death on the same charge.

In Japanese-held Nanking and Canton, China, the 10th anniversary of the Mukden incident which sent the Japanese marching into Manchuria was marked by bomb explosions which killed more than 30 persons, some of them Japanese. At least 50 persons were injured in the blasts allegedly set off by anti-Japanese agents.

Martial law was declared in Canton, and Japanese troops rounded up hundreds of suspects.

In Shanghai, gunmen recently shot and killed two men and seriously wounded two Japanese.

In Berlin five men died under the axe Tuesday, four charged with "preparation for treason," the other with espionage. Those executions in the heart of Naziland brought the year's total to 29 in Germany.

This week also marked the lifting of a state of civil siege in German occupied Oslo which was imposed for exactly a week after strike movements had begun to trouble the administration. Two union leaders were executed at the outset of the period and hundreds were arrested, many being sent to concentration camps.

ANIMALS, TOO!

Zoo Population Gets Excited Over Northern Lights.

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — Even the animal world reacted to the dazzling display of the Northern Lights, Zoo watchman Bert Shipley reporting plaintively:

"They all started hollering for food. There are no lights around here at night, of course. When this thing started, the animals thought it was feeding time. The buffalo, deer, goats and other outside ones were the worst but even those in the buildings got to yelling, too.

WANTS TO TELL HER FRIENDS HOW RUMASOL HELPED HER MORE THAN ANYTHING ELSE
Declares She Suffered with Severe Pains in Knees for One Year Without Getting Any Relief Until She Tried Rumasol.
"I was troubled with rheumatism for the past year, then I took Rumasol and it gave me wonderful relief," says Mrs. Ida E. Smith, R. F. D. 1, Alvada, Ohio.
"I had rheumatism in my knee so bad that I could hardly get up or down. The misery was like a toothache and it was hard for me to walk or get about to do my housework. My nerves were all out of fix and my sleep was all broken up. I felt depressed and tired when I started the day. I was constipated and this may have left poison in my system."

Mr. Whiteside, originator of this great medicine.
"Since I took Rumasol the pain in my knee has been relieved. I can walk better and I can get around better so my housework seems easier to me. My nerves are steady and I sleep well. Constipation has been relieved and that played-out feeling has left. I will take a few more bottles and I will tell my friends about this great medicine.
